(BY MARCUS)

COLUMBUS — (Special) — Here are the directions under which Governor Harry L. Davis, his Illinois expert, George E. Frazier and legislative councilors evolved the so-called administrative code under which the existing state offices are to be ripped up so that a big state machine can be created personally subscribed to the Executive: Let each card of a deck of poker cards represent a department and let nine hands be dealt out after, of course, the deck has been shuffled and cut. Let the cards fall where they will and bingo! you have the long awaited reorganization plan. It may happen, as it did, that censorship of motion pictures falls with the medical registration and that the oil department falls with the banking department and a few minor propositions of this kind. But what of that? No one can tell what's in a hand until it is picked up and probably if Solomon had lived in modern times and was getting up a list of things "too wonderful for words," he would have added "the run of cards." No one can account for it. And no one can account for the proposed arrangement of departments.

To assume that the thing lacked design entirely may be going too far, for oftentimes there are deep laid plans behind the deal in a card game. As many of the readers of these lines can testify, in actual reorganization there is little, because existing functions of government are but little changed. Things are muddled up with one purpose and only one for the Governor has first call on every line and only the taxpayers can lose. What the real authors of the plan think it is to be guessed from the plot laid to avoid the judgment of the people upon the law. Until the bill is actually presented, it is an emergency clause to obstruct a referendum. In recent days the referendum-killing have been few, the reason, as waiting through legislative halls, being that there was to be use for them on the big stuff, which means, of course, for getting the jobs.

To tell what the business and professional element think of the plan would be to violate the statutes against profanity and no newspaper hopes to get thru the mail. Scattering up of others has tended to convince persons who have to deal with state departments that there is need of a puzzle book to tell them what they formerly dealt. Gradually, feeling against the reorganization plan. Until its nature was appreciated the general sentiment of economy and of reduction of the number of departments was well received. A popular vote, there could not be, no one knows this better than those backing the measure. It has already been generally dubbed the "legislative reorganization ripper." If members of the General Assembly were not afraid they will not be allowed to share in the carrion of patronage, there could not be secured one half of the votes for the plan.

"Why can't a Governor just govern?" was the comment of a leading member of the party of the Executive when he heard of the terms of the bill. "It is just a plan for the creation of a big machine and nothing more," he added. This man who knows business asked what is to be done to a business organization if it is to be ripped up from first to last every few months. He opined that no business that could survive such a shock. With him many business men agreed that what is bad about the plan is that it is a small amount of that American quality known as "sand" is needed to make the thing look as dead as old Limas, hanging there on his gallows, as told in the Biblical story.

One set of interests cursing particularly loud are the fellows who

BACK IN PULPIT TODAY

SANDWICH, Ont. — The little Methodist church here is expected to have a record attendance at Sunday's services. Every member of the congregation and many "outsiders" are going to attend.

The pastor of the church, Rev. J. O. L. Spracklin, now a widely known figure, is going to preach.

He was acquitted of a murder charge Thursday and has not been in his pulpit except to make brief announcements on one or two occasions since he was arrested on the murder charge over three months ago.

MEETING HELD AT FINDLAY

Lima Stake Races Biggest in State of Ohio.

Fair representatives from Lima, Findlay, Toledo, Kenton, Bowling Green, Fremont and Bellefontaine met at Findlay Saturday to outline classes and make plans for the coming racing season in the Northwest Ohio Short Ship Racing circuit.

M. L. Mayer of Lima, was elected president and R. S. Sweet of Bowling Green, secretary.

According to President Mayer, Allen-co fair will stage the only race with a $2,000 stake. The highest stake at the state fair is only $1,500. Mayer says this large stake will draw the best racing blood from all parts of the country and insure the highest class racing at the fair here August 23-24-25-26.

LIMA STAKES BIGGEST

The races at Lima will include the Lima Business Men's 2:18 trot, the Lima Elks 2:14 trot; San Felipe and El Vero 2:12 trot; Lima Business Men's 2:17 pace; Allen-co Fair 2:20, three-year-old trot. Besides this there will be a two-year-old class race and a free-for-all pony race, open to all boys and girls in Allen-co. The races at the other fairs will be similar.

It was agreed by the representatives that entries should close Friday, April 1. The entry fee will be three per cent on installments; one per cent April first, one per cent May first and one per cent June first, or two per cent cash. Two horses may be named from the same stable on one payment and started; provided that entry fees are paid on both at the time of starting. There will be a five per cent deduction for money winners. The races are to be run under the American Trotting association rules, three heat plan. The money will be divided, 50 per cent, 25 per cent, 15 per cent, and ten per cent.

LOCAL MEN AT MEETING

The representatives who attended the meetings at Findlay Saturday were, M. L. Mayer, Irvin Ridenour, Harry Watkins and G. D. Creman from Lima; G. R. Lewis and A. E. Dorsey from Findlay; R. S. Sweet and James Ordway from Bowling Green; Joe Gahagan from Toledo; H. J. Pfeiffer from Kenton; C. A. Hochenedel from Fremont and Don A. Detrick from Bellefontaine.

Albert, aged 11, and Eugene, aged 13, sons of Seymour White, colored, 930 W. High-st., were run over by an automobile driven by J. E. Porter, 87 Brice-ave., on W. North-st., near Baxter, at 10 o'clock last night. They were taken to St. Rita's hospital. Albert's leg was broken above the knee and one of Eugene's feet was badly mashed. No indications of internal injuries had developed early this morning.

The two boys had been sent by their mother to Walters Bros. grocery, 999 W. Wayne-st., and were riding in their home-made coaster wagon when they shot in front of Porter's automobile. It is believed that the boys were watching another machine coming from the west and failed to notice the auto which hit them. Porter did not see them until they were directly in front of him and was unable to stop or turn aside. He picked up the injured lad and took them to the hospital.

Seymour White, the father, is the driver of a mail wagon and is employed by the Western Ohio.

FACTORY BURNED

BELLAIRE, O. — Fire Saturday almost destroyed the factory of the Roby Cigar Company, and an adjoining warehouse to the concern. The loss was estimated at $100,000. Cause of the blaze was a defective flame, it was said. For a time the flames threatened the business district, but a shift in the wind permitted the firemen to get the fire under control.

WOULD 'FIRE'
30 PERCENT
OF TEACHERSInvestigator Scores Allen-co
School System In Advance Report

CONDEMN TIMIDITY

Retardation, Truancy, Few
Certificates—Favor
Centralization

"Thirty per cent of Allen-co rural teachers should be 'fired' immediately," C. E. Oliver said Saturday in speaking of his report on the condition of Allen-co rural schools, which he expects to file this week with the state department of education.

Oliver, who came here three weeks ago, has not completed his county investigations, but expects to do so this week. His report covers all the schools in the county, save those of Lima and Delphos.

Oliver was superintendent of schools at East Palestine and also editor of a newspaper there at the same time.

PRaises AND CENSURE

Oliver mixed praise with censure of the rural schools. "With few minor exceptions," he admitted, "the spirit of co-operation is very good." Summing up the entire situation he said: "Education in this county is not as good as it should be."

Oliver professed his inability to reconcile this condition with the rich resources of Allen-co.

He says furthermore, that truancy is higher in Allen-co than in other counties visited by him so far this school season.

In commenting on the report to be made, he said that he did not come here to find fault and had no preconceived notions whatsoever.

Oliver spoke before the rural teachers Saturday at the Central High school building and went deeply in school conditions throughout the county as he has found them.

Excerpts of the report to be filed are included in paragraphs following:

The men teachers are outnumbered by the women, three to one, there being 48 males and 126 females teaching.

FEW CERTIFICATES

What certificates are held are very good. Few hold the certificates. Oliver deprecates this condition of affairs.

In educational matters, 71 per cent of the teachers have four years high school training. Others have less, but every one at least one year. As regards normal school training, 18 men and seven women have no evidence of such work. Nine men and 73 women possess one year of such training and four women at least two years. Of the total number of elementary teachers, 53 per cent have at least one year of this work.

No elementary teacher can show a college education, while eight men and four women of the high school teachers have college experience.

A total of 23 teachers, teaching for the first time this school term, includes five men and 18 women. A total of six beginners are found in the high schools, one man and five women teaching for the first time.

Teachers by modern standards are considered seasonably experienced after the completion of eight years of teaching.

Oliver has divided the county teachers into two classes; those with over eight years of experience and those with less than that number of years.

Less than eight years finds a total of 114 teachers. Thirty-one including both high school and elementary teachers, are listed as having more experience. In percentages these figures are reduced down to a total of 16 per cent as beginners. 65 per cent with less than eight years of experience and 19 per cent with more than that.

SCHOOL TAX COMPARISON

The average school tax per district is shown, according to his report, to be 6.81 mills. The highest tax is in the village of Lafayette and the lowest in Landeck with taxes of 11.98 and 2.8 mills respectively. Strangely enough, Landeck is the wealthiest district in the county, with a total taxable wealth of $148,000 per pupil.

Oliver explained the low mill levy of Landeck, by reason, he says, of no local levy being made because the state and county levies are sufficient.

Enumeration and enrollment statistics show a steady decline in the number of pupils in attendance. The decrease is 255 in all. However, the high school enrollment is steadily increasing, a hundred more pupils being enrolled this year than in 1914.

Twenty-five out of every 100 pupils enrolled, are back in their work, his report will say. He stated that Allen-co is far behind Cuyahoga in this respect, which county with at least nine-tenths of foreign born pupils enrolled in her schools, shows only 16 per cent of pupils retarded in their work.

Critic Appearing at Denver

DENVER, Colo. — America's bad manners and lagging discipline are responsible for the "shimmy" dance.

Take it from Anna Pavlova, who is appearing here, there'd be no disgusting, quivering, wiggling or undulations in their dancing if American children were disciplined as Russian children are.

Clad in a scant yard or two of drapery, the Russian artist voiced her disapproval of the modern American "wriggling" to her questioner in a local theater.

"Discipline—that was the keynote of life in Russia. And it produced among other things the dance as we Russians do it."

"Now what does this lack of discipline in America produce?" asked Pavlova.

She answered her own question: "The shimmy."

And until American boys and girls learn discipline, this country won't bring up any dancing stars, she added.

OFFICIAL OFFERS SYMPATHY

Mrs. McWharther Severe in Criticism of British.

Recognition of the Irish Republic by the United States was pleaded for by Donal O'Callaghan, Lord Mayor of Cork and demanded by Mrs. Mary McWharther, president of the Ladies Auxiliary to the Ancient Order of Hibernians, Saturday night in their address at Memorial hall.

Capt. Robert Moniech of Columbus, former captain in the British army and now an organizer for the American Association for Recognition of the Irish Republic, made a plea for members in the association. Mrs. Adelle Christie, of Cleveland, vice-president of the Ladies' Auxiliary to the A. O. H., sang a solo.

Lord Mayor O'Callaghan was formally introduced by Mayor F. A. Burkhardt, who welcomed him to the city and expressed deep sympathy for his fellow countrymen. He compared Ireland to America in its fight for liberty and said that "the pathos of history offered no parallel." J. W. Halfhill, chairman of the meeting, was introduced by F. W. Durbin, chairman of the committee on arrangements.

MAYOR IS CHEERED

When the Lord Mayor of Cork was presented to the audience that packed the auditorium across an aisle and cheered him for several minutes. The quiet, unassuming little Irishman in whose face could be read all the sufferings of his race, evidenced a determination to impel Americans, champions of human freedom and liberty, see the things that he has seen and inspire them to aid in Ireland's cause.

For an hour he spoke on the history of Ireland and the attitude of the British government. He repeated the oft-heard tales of reprisals and finally summed it all up in the six words "But Ireland wants to be free."

"Ireland wants to know if America was in earnest when she said she was fighting for the principle of self-determination for smaller nations. When are you going to redeem the pledges and promises you so persistently made to the world? Let Ireland submit her case to any jury of the American people if it were left to your soldier dead to determine, Ireland would be free," he said.

According to plans disclosed here tonight, the town folks will gather around the famous "front porch" from which the president-elect conducted his presidential campaign, tell Harding how much they like him and then listen to a few remarks by him.

Work of setting the stage was completed today. D. R. Crisinger, boyhood chum of Harding, will have charge of the ceremony. The old Harding home is now occupied by another tenant, use of its front porch has been granted to Crisinger and it is planned to stage the "blow out" rain or shine.

According to the plans, Marionette will gather around the front porch at 11 o'clock Wednesday morning. Dr. T. H. McAfee, pastor of the Trinity Baptist church, which the president-elect and Mrs. Harding attended, will present a solid silver plaque, bearing a testimonial of love from their fellow citizens. Dr. McAfee was to have delivered the invocation at the presidential notification ceremonies, but was unable to do so because of ill health. It is understood to have been the expressed wish of Harding's that Dr. McAfee present the silver plaque.

WARNS AGAINST PROPAGANDA

"If the American people believe that the Irish republic should be recognized; if the feeling is sufficiently strong; if the organization is of the proper manner, nothing can withstand you."

"And then the Stars and Stripes of your country, and the green, white and orange of Ireland shall wave together, emblem of freedom," he concluded. He warned against British propaganda.

Mrs. McWharther was very severe in her criticism of the British and the attitude of the United States in the matter. She did not hesitate to call the British cabinet members, the members of the Black and Tans and the Royal Irish constabulary murderers and even went so far as to say "I am going to charge America with being the sole reason for the horror over there." She demanded payment of the British war debt.

Previous to the meeting at Memorial hall the local committee on arrangements entertained the lord mayor's party at dinner at the Elks club. F. W. Durbin, chairman of the committee, presided at the dinner.

HARDING RETURNS

Leaves Florida for Inauguration
Friday—Marion
Prepares Farewell

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla. — With his cabinet completed, President-elect Harding brought his Florida vacation to an end Saturday night. He prepared to leave Sunday for his inauguration at Washington next Friday. He goes by way of Marion, Ohio, where thousands of old friends and neighbors are preparing a farewell celebration for him.

The appointment of Edwin Denby of Michigan, to become secretary of the navy, was announced by Harding Saturday. He also stated that Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., will be assistant secretary of the navy.

Maintenance of an adequate navy will be the cardinal policy under his administration, Denby declared shortly after his conference with Harding. He said details had not been worked out at present. He made it plain he intends to cooperate at all times with congress and the president. He has a wide acquaintance with members of congress, having served three terms there.

NAMES ANNOUNCED

Five cabinet appointments have been announced by Harding, up to Saturday night. They are:

Charles B. Hughes, New York, secretary of state.

Harry M. Daugherty, Ohio, attorney general.

Herbert Hoover, California, secretary of commerce.

Henry C. Wallace, Iowa, secretary of agriculture.

Edwin Denby, Michigan, secretary of the navy.

It is known that the other five places have been filled definitely, except for some unforeseen hitch as follows:

Andrew W. Mellon, Pennsylvania, secretary of the treasury.

Will H. Hays, Indiana, postmaster general.

John W. Weeks, Massachusetts, secretary of war.

Albert B. Fall, New Mexico, secretary of the interior.

James J. Davis, Pennsylvania, secretary of labor.

ROOSEVELT CHOSEN

Harding and Denby received the newspaper men in the small hotel room, which has been the president-elect's office here.

Harding then announced the appointment of Colonel Theodore Roosevelt as assistant secretary of the navy, saying that he very earnestly desired to have him occupy that post because of his ability and out of respect for the tradition which was established when the older Roosevelt made his entry into national affairs thru this position. Franklin D. Roosevelt, a cousin, was assistant secretary under Secretary Daniels.

In connection with the Denby announcement, Harding said he has informed congressional leaders he would be very reluctant to suspend the naval building program until a disarmament agreement has been entered into with other nations.

HARDING'S FAREWELL

MARION — Warren G. Harding's farewell of his home town will be made minus the frills which usually accompany the send-off given a president-elect when he takes leave of his old friends, here next Wednesday.

No brass bands or parades will be allowed. When Harding says goodbye to Marion, it will be done in the most simple style.

According to plans disclosed here tonight, the town folks will gather around the famous "front porch" from which the president-elect conducted his presidential campaign, tell Harding how much they like him and then listen to a few remarks by him.

IS CAPTUREDYouth Fleeing Chicago With $772,000, Taken at Heyworth.

CRIES FOR HIS MOTHER

Breaks Down, Tells Story of Stealing Bonds.

BLOOMINGTON, Ill.—Willie Dalton with his dream of a life of ease in South America shattered, cried for his mother Saturday night.

The boy bank robber, arrested at Heyworth, near here Saturday, just 48 hours after he fled from the Northern Trust Company at Chicago, with $772,000 worth of Liberty bonds, was homesick, repentant and fearful that his life would be spent behind the bars.

The youth arrived here Saturday night in custody of county officials for safe keeping. There is only a small jail at Heyworth. All except one $500 bond which is missing from the stolen securities, were also brought to Bloomington for safe keeping in the strong vaults of Bloomington banks.

Dalton had broken down completely by the time he arrived here, and was unable to talk. Tears flowed down his cheeks as he was taken to the jail. He had maintained his calm self-confident attitude until he was asked about his mother.

"I wonder what she will think?" he cried and then lost all control of himself.

Dalton was arrested while playing a game of pool in Heyworth. He was a great lover of the game.

TELLS HIS STORY

He told his story calmly when first taken into custody. He said he had not planned the robbery.

"The temptation came while I was sorting the bonds in the bond cage at the bank on Thursday," he said.

"I was only making $65 a month and it was mighty hard to give my mother all the money she needed and have enough to spend."

He was how he walked out of the bank while two guards watched, walked to a store and bought a small leather bag, sold one of the $500 bonds to a bond house in Chicago and left on an interurban car going south.

He spent the first night at Naperville, Ill.

"I didn't sleep all night," he said. "I would break out with a cold sweat and tremble all over. I thought mostly of my mother. It was hell."

On Friday, he went to Joliet and from there went to Bradwood and later to Bloomington, where he spent the night.

"I decided then that I couldn't afford to travel on trains any longer," he said. "I thought everyone I saw was going to arrest me. I was so fired Friday night, that I slept some but every time I would go to sleep, I would have fearful dreams and wake up with a jerk. I thought everyone in the world was looking for me."

PICKED UP FOR RIDE

Saturday morning, Dalton started to walk south from Bloomington. He had walked about four miles when James Dentis, a laborer, living at Norman, Ill., came along in an automobile.

Dentis asked Dalton if he wanted a ride. Dalton hesitated a minute and then got into the machine.

Dentis said he had been reading about the bank robbery and suspected Dalton as soon as he got into the machine.

"His muscles twitched nervously and he tried to evade questions when I quizzed him," Dentis said.

On reaching Heyworth, Dalton had breakfast with Dentis at Joe Stevens' restaurant. Dalton left and went to the pool hall where he started playing with Jack Hennessy, the local cue shark.

Dentis told his suspicions to Stevens and they called Jack Draper, the town constable.

Draper, his son, Stevens and Dentis, went to the pool hall and after watching Dalton play for a few minutes, arrested him.

VIOLENT FIGHT SEE

Navy Measure Halted—
Wilson Signs Act, Paying
Railroads $350,000,000

WASHINGTON—The senate Saturday night passed and sent to conference the army appropriation bill providing for an army of 175,000 men.

The senate action means a violent conflict with the house, which voted for an army of 150,000 men. The difference between the two branches may keep the measure from passing this session.

The senate, in order to provide for an army of 175,000, increased the pay allotment from $72,678,659 as fixed by the house, to $83,000,000.

Senator Wadsworth, chairman of the senate military committee, declared that while the bill provided for an "average strength" of 175,000, it actually would be necessary to reduce the army to 162,000 by January, 1922, because of the present large size. He estimated the enlisted strength Saturday at 240,000, saying this would be cut to 237,000 by the beginning of the next fiscal year. The house appropriations, he said, would compel an eventual reduction to 122,000.

NAVY BILL HALTED

WASHINGTON — Although senate leaders were able to rush the army appropriation bill thru the senate Saturday night, their efforts to give the navy bill a favored place were frustrated by Senator Borah of Idaho, who threatened a filibuster that would cause failure of several important bills.

The fate of this legislation now depends upon the attitude Borah adopts Monday when efforts to take up the navy appropriations and emergency tariff bills, will be made.

Borah will insist at that time, he said, that the resolution repealing war laws be given preference and he was virtually assured by senate leaders that this would be done.

Senator Thomas, Colorado, however, may make a long talk against the repealer.

Congressional leaders are trying to get all this legislation thru so that the Harding administration will not be faced with the task of passing appropriation bills when it takes office.

WILSON SIGNS RAIL BILL

WASHINGTON—One of the numerous angles of the railroad problems facing the government and rail executives was eliminated Saturday night, when President Wilson signed the Winslow bill, recently passed by congress.

The bill makes immediately available to the railroads part of the railroad fund of the money due them under the transportation act which guaranteed them six per cent on their valuation for a six-months' period ended last September. The treasury has said this money cannot be paid placement, but must be paid in a lump sum when a final accounting was had between the roads and the government.

LABOR OVERRIDDEN

The immediate effect of the measure will be to give the roads access to government funds totalling about $350,000,000 within the next few months. This will enable them to pay bills for coal, equipment and increase their power to borrow money at more reasonable rates of interest. The $350,000,000 to be paid is in addition to $250,000,000 already paid.

The necessity for making the payments will force postponement of treasury plans for wiping out a deficit and probably make necessary continuance of the issuance of certificates of indebtedness to meet current expenses.

The president, in approving the Winslow bill, overrode the protest of organized labor, which asked its veto.

OTHER PROBLEMS

While the president's action wipes out one of the railroad difficulties, there are others facing them, that will probably bring them back before congress early in the special session to be called by President-elect Harding early in the spring.

The guarantee section of the transportation act is itself under attack and should it be declared unconstitutional, payments made to railroads probably will have to be refunded. State officials who are attacking the guarantee provision also want courts to knock out sections of the act which give the Interstate Commerce Commission power over intra-state as well as interstate rates.

TARIFF APPROVED

WASHINGTON—Emergency tariff legislation was brought one step nearer a presidential veto Saturday by action of the house in approving the conference report on the measure.

AUTO SHOW NOW ONLY MEMORY

Successful Event Came to Close Saturday Night.

FACTS SHOWN IN FIGURES

Attendance Figures Mount High—Expenses Climb.

Some interesting things about the auto show which came to a close Saturday night came to light at the show building when officials got out pencil and paper and began to figure.

Here is what they found: Total value of autos and trucks on display during the show, $257,444, which does not include accessories. Paid attendance up to Friday night, as close as could be figured, 8,600, and the number of exhibitors, 41 in all.

The expenses of the show, including such items as light, heat, advertising, attendants, decorations and salary for the show manager were, unfortunately for the promoters, considerably augmented by the damage done to the steam heating plant and the cost of installation of new parts. The bills, Saturday, it was said, will total $2,200.

SOURCE OF RECEIPTS
The chief source of income consisted of the door receipts, floor space rental and program advertising.

Harry Cummings, who assisted the auto show committee, which consisted of W. C. Fridley, C. C. Chumner and Leon B. Merritt, planned to leave for Erie, Pennsylvania, Sunday, but will not now leave till Monday night.

The crowds Saturday afternoon and evening were as enthusiastic as those earlier in the week.

The crowds in attendance enjoyed the sight of the show every bit as much as the beautiful automobiles—such as the flowers, music and decorations.

The crowds of attendants on the various floors saw to the immediate wants of all visitors. One attendant in particular, William Harman, who stood at the main entrance ushering in and out every visitor, attracted the attention of the crowds by his bumpy appearance and unusual courtesy.

ALL ON ACCOUNT OF A DRESS

Found Guilty of Assault. Miller is Arrested for Theft.

Failure to appreciate the care he gave his family while he was in the army was charged by Joseph Wyland, boarder, against Mrs. Eva Miller, boarding house proprietor, Union and North-sts., in a trial in Justice W. H. Gwynn's court Saturday.

Wyland, on the witness stand, said he aided the family while the husband was in the army. When Mrs. Miller wanted a new dress, he said he loaned her the money to buy it, after her husband's return.

She was to pay the debt, according to the testimony, the following Saturday. But when she did not replace the funds, she declared Wyland wanted to take the dress, he was in court to answer to a charge of assault and battery in an alleged attempt to get the dress.

Mrs. Miller declared she had told Wyland he could take the dress, if he wanted to.

Judge Guyton found Wyland guilty of assault and battery, as charged. Mrs. Miller, after winning the case, then had Wyland arrested on the charge of theft of the dress. Wyland is a clerk at the Charles Maxwell hotel, 969 S. Main-st.

Allen-co People Urged to Report Names of Soldier Dead.

Response to the appeal for the names of soldier dead who were enrolled in the service from Allen-co is not meeting the expectations of those compiling the roll.

Names of all those who lost their lives in battle in camps either here or abroad, by disease here or abroad, or who have died since their return to this country or since their discharge, because of wounds received in battle or from disease contracted while in the service, are wanted for the Allen-co history soon to be published. It would be a shame indeed if, when the roll is published, the names of any one of these heroes would be omitted.

Everyone who knows of any soldiers of Allen-co who lost their lives, because of service to their country, should make it their duty to see that the names are made known at once.

Mrs. Irene Mills Jackson, at the Red Cross offices on the third floor of the Lima Business College building, is in charge of the work and she urgently requests that the names of all soldiers who lost their lives in the world war be sent to her at once.

SAYS DEATH IS UNIVERSAL

Proves That the Dead Still Live
Remarkable evidence that there is no death, there are no dead, is offered by Lloyd Kenyon Jones, Room 1770, 538 S. Clark-st., Chicago, in his book entitled "God's World," in which he shows how, thru God's own law, the spirits of those who have passed thru the portals of death can and do communicate with those on earth. One should not be cheered by the thought that loved ones have not been transmuting by death, for God's door is always open between earth life and eternal life, where we all will be united forever. In his illustrated booklet "Communication," he presents his view of life, here and beyond the grave, which will enable you to understand "God's World" and show you how to obtain happiness and fuller understanding of life here and in the hereafter. Simply send your name to the author at the above address and the book will be sent to you free of all charges.—Adv.

CHAS. H. CROY, LIMA MAN, DIES AT HOSPITAL, GALLIPOLIS, SATURDAY

Charles H. Croy, 36, who served in the United States senate some years ago as stenographer to Senator Dixon and other officials, died Saturday at Gallipolis. He had been in failing health some years and had been at a hospital in Gallipolis for treatment since June.

Croy served six years in the senatorial and congressional circles in Washington. He was later located in Havana, Cuba with an ocean shipping company. He was widely known over the city.

Surviving besides the parents are a daughter, Corlaine Croy, two brothers and two sisters. They are D. B. Croy, Chicago; Harry Croy, of the Milwaukee News, Milwaukee, Wis.; Miss Edna Croy, Detroit; and Miss Elizabeth Croy, at the parental home.

Arrangements were made Saturday night to have the body brought to the parental home here at 608 W. High-st.

WOMEN 'FIRE' MANY TEACHERS

tion is in the rural and not the village schools because of the better attendance records in the latter, he says.

He classifies in the report to be filed, 36 per cent of the teachers to be superior, 20 per cent to be instantly turned loose, with 40 per cent are classed as mediocre. He believes the latter class could be improved by more study and experience.

CONDEMNES "TIMIDITY"
In the manner of discipline, he condemns the "timidity" of superintendents "in putting things across." They, the superintendents are too easy on the pupils when it comes to getting them to attend regularly, Oliver added.

"I've worked a scheme of redistricting," Oliver said. "Centralization of Allen-co schools is the next step in improving school conditions." In support of his claim that Allen-co can afford and ought to have centralized schools, he dwells upon some interesting facts. Ninety-five per cent of the roads are hard surfaced. The number of dollars of taxable wealth per pupil for Allen-co is $12,630. For the entire state of Ohio, the average is $8,000, or less than three-quarters as much.

Oliver based his figures for Allen-co on a total tax duplicate of $61,000,000 and a total rural enrollment of 4,802 pupils.

The latter figure represents 75 per cent of the number of pupils who ought to be in school. Contrasted with other counties that Oliver has visited this school season, Allen-co is a "trailer," to use one of Oliver's expressions. Guernsey-co has 75 per cent in attendance and Cuyahoga 81 per cent, his personal reports say.

Oliver goes to Columbus Monday to consult with the state department heads, but expects to return the following day.

He says he has personally visited one-third of Allen-co rural pupils and one-fourth of the teachers. He has visited all the village schools and most of the rural buildings.

TO MAKE TRY FOR SCHOLARSHIPS

Opportunities Open to Children of Penna. Co. Employees.

Pennsylvania Passenger Agent Crooks, has received information concerning the Frank Thomson and John Clark Sims memorial scholarships, which are available to children of all Pennsylvania employees. The acquisition of a Thomson scholarship depends upon the applicant receiving the highest grade in a competitive examination before the entrance board of New York City. There are two Thomson scholarships available this year. They were made possible in 1907 by the action of the children of Frank Thomson, formerly president of the Pennsylvania railroad, in memory of their father. It was their intention that children of living and deceased employees secure a complete education, so that they might serve the company in a high capacity.

In all there are eight scholarships, each for a period of four years; the scholarship winner is entitled to select any college or university, subject, however, to the approval of the railroad officials.

The John Clark Sims scholarships were founded as a memorial to the late John Clark Sims, formerly secretary of the Pennsylvania railroad company and for many years trustee of the university of Pennsylvania.

Two yearly scholarships, exempting the holder from payment of tuition, were established at the university of Pennsylvania. One scholarship is to be held by a party chosen by trustees of the university and the other in a competitive examination, open to sons of Pennsylvania railroad employees. Examinations are held under the rules and regulations of the university of Pennsylvania.

Examinations for both the Thomson and Sims scholarships are to be held in June.

LIMA TO OBSERVE "SILK WEEK"

Local Merchants Join In With National Movement.

THE STORY OF SILK MAKING

'Twas a Chinese Secret Until a Lover Went Wooling.

"Every dog has his day," the saying goes, but now they have given the lowly silk worm a whole week. Somebody somewhere has decreed that this week is to be known as National Silk Week and Lima is going to observe the period like all the rest of the cities, according to George Carter, chairman of the committee of the Merchants' association appointed to make and carry out the plans.

Silk, once the garment of only kings and emperors, queens, etc., will be displayed in all the show windows in bulk and finished product. It is an undisputed fact that silk is the superlative of fineness in dress material, pleasing to the touch as well as to the eye of both male and female. The man who has just not had quite enough nerve to purchase a silk shirt, can do so this week without fear. The ladies will all be doing it. The ladies too will be up to their ears in silk, for as some one has said: "Lives there a female with soul so dead who never to herself has said, 'Oh, that I were clothed in silk from foot to head!'"

WHAT A LITTLE WORM DID
But to get back to the cause of all this, there's the modest little silk worm, whose popularity does not seem to have turned his head. It seems that some 4983 years ago, 2640 B. C. to be exact, a little Chinese Empress by name Si-ling-chi, discovered the little silk worm spinning his fleecy skein that his since caused thrones and fortunes to topple. History records that the little empress cultivated the worm and when she appeared in the first silk dress she almost knocked the Emperor off his throne. Silk was the only thing from that on. The Chinese kept the mystery of silkmaking to themselves and if any one else wanted to learn it, they had to come outside her straightway had his queue removed about eight inches below its roots.

However, some movie actor prince of India sojourned in China and lured a little princess from her native land and along with her a silkworm and a bale of mulberry leaves for his feed. The vampire Prince learned the secret of silkmaking and the whole world knew it. $500,000,000 worth of silk was sold last year.

MRS. LINK FUNERAL
Funeral services for Mrs. Edward Link, 718 W. Vine-st., who died at the City hospital, Friday evening, will be held Monday at 2 o'clock at the High-st. United Brethren church. Interment will be at Woodlawn.

BIRTH OF A SON
Born to Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Ridenour, 211 E. Kibby-st., Friday, a nine-pound girl.

VISITORS FROM VARIOUS PARTS OF WORLD ATTEND BIG AUTO SHOW SATURDAY

Saturday, the last day of the auto show, saw visitors from various corners of the globe.

Arthur C. Coulter, civil engineer, of La Paz, Bolivia, visited the scene of the show at 545 W. Market-st. and commented favorably upon the beauty of the display.

Another visitor, who expressed amazement at the magnitude of the exhibit, for a city of Lima's size, was L. B. Frey, of the Arcadia Valley, Alberta, Canada.

A visitor from Roswell, New Mexico, who failed to leave his name with show officials, was attracted hearing of the display of motor trucks in large numbers.

Motor show officials expressed regret Saturday night, that a guest register was not kept for out-of-town visitors.

GUN CLUB PLANS A NEW HOME

Lease Taken on Land Near Water Works Lake.

The Lima Gun Club will soon have a new home equal to any in the state, according to Councilman J. W. Reed, secretary-treasurer of the organization.

Several acres of ground at the end of Elm-st., on the banks of the new billion gallon water works reservoir have been leased by the club.

Officers of the club believe that the beautiful maple grove on the edge of the lake will make an ideal park, as well as trap shooting grounds.

A meeting of citizens of Lima interested in the project has been called for 7:15 Monday at the Owen Bros. carriage shop, by M. D. Owen, president of the club.

If it is found that a goodly number of citizens are interested in the proposition, steps will be taken immediately towards constructing traps. It is planned to move the transfer station from the public square to the club grounds.

The Gun Club has been using the Linneman farm south of the city as a place for trap shooting, but the property has been laid out into building lots and can no longer be used by the club.

If present plans materialize, Lima will soon have a new and beautiful park on the shore of a beautiful lake at the very edge of the city and the Lima Gun Club will have ideal trap shooting grounds.

REAL ESTATE SELLS AT MORE THAN APPRAISAL

Sale of 59.52 acres of land in Bath-up, at public auction was made by Sheriff C. W. Baxter Saturday to satisfy the action in probate court of Hazel A. Stevenson, as administratrix of the estate of the late Woodford P. Stevenson.

The property was appraised at $2,571.20 and was sold by Sheriff Baxter for $3,900 to A. T. Baldwin, for more than $300 over its appraisal value.

COUNCIL REFUSED TO FIREMEN; PAULDING MEN QUIT IN DISGUST

DELPHOS—Action of council of Paulding is responsible for the disbanding of the 8-man volunteer fire department there. Paulding is now wholly without fire protection. Fire ladders valiantly fought a fire which threatened to destroy several blocks of the business section. They turned in a bill to council for $60. Council refused payment of half of the amount.

Members of the fire department were disgusted. They held a meeting and resolved to suspend and disband. They have disposed of their entire equipment. Paulding is a town of 2,000 people.

BAXTER FUNERAL TO BE PRIVATE

Obsequies Arranged for Monday—Burial in Woodlawn.

Funeral services for Mrs. Herbert Baxter (Marguerite Mitchell) who was killed in an automobile accident near Hume Friday, will be held Monday at 10 o'clock at the residence of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. ## OPPOSE PENNSYLVANIA LAW REPEAL

Allen-co Teachers in Session Here Saturday.

FAVOR RURAL SUPERINTENDENT

Representative Cochran to Support Laws.

Resolutions were adopted Saturday by the Allen-co Teachers' association, in session at Central High school, asking Allen-co Representative Jasper Cochran to oppose repeal of the law providing for supervision of rural schools. Cochran is also asked to make the retention of the law a condition for teachers after 30 years of continuous service, or 40 years of the age of 60, while in school service.

He closed by saying that training included these factors: rightness, thoroughness, reverence, obedience to law. He cited an example of uprightness, a teacher whom the civil war left penniless. When offered a bonus of $50,000 the use of his name, he is said to have replied: "My name is all I have. It is not for sale."

Dr. Ellis spoke in the forenoon on "The Meaning of Education," which he said, that the meaning of education nowadays is the sense of the principle that it means social development.

The next session of the teachers' association as decided upon at the one-day session Saturday, will be held on August 29 to September 1.

HUGHES Frank Statement About Price Conditions

DIAMONDS JEWELRY SILVERWARE CLOCKS

We want our customers to feel and to know that they are getting the benefit of price reductions as factory lists are reduced. We, like all other sound merchandising establishments, realize our duty to the public, and are not hesitating to take our loss as gracefully as we took some gains when prices were on the upward trend.

If you know the inside you would know that the reliable merchants are readjusting their prices more quickly with the falling market than they did with the rising market, because, on the rising market they could create sales by price comparison which isn't possible now.

However, the public should and does realize, at least, the reasoning part of it, that all radical price reductions were made on January 1st for the present year and particularly is this true of our line on account of their staple qualities.

We would be pleased to have you come in and we will give you the benefit of the various changes in prices if any, on everything in the store.

The information stated herein is to let you know the exact conditions as they exist in our most important lines of merchandise.

hope for alteration in the taxation policy of the state. They say the folks are getting so disgusted with the patronage hunting and with the general indifference to public welfare that they fear any taxonomic amendment submitted by this General Assembly will be defeated before it is submitted. The situation has worked around for them until it was in fine shape. The uniform rule eleven law has been completed to bare its hand and to show that it really favored taxonomic legislation and the advocates of a change were able to take the place of a half of an income tax law, thereby getting away from the situation which is a hideous word to the farmers. It seems a wicked fate for them however for the first time since the law was passed, they are along with all the hopping on the administration and all of its works.

If persistence is ever rewarded, then O. K. Shuman, secretary of the Ohio Board of Commerce, deserves a silver crown from the liability insurance interests. Successive defeats have in no wise diminished the zeal of this ardent youth, who hopes to restore to the banished companies the fruits they enjoyed. Still, will destroy that workers' compensation law if he busts a gallus doing it. All hands around the Capitol of Ohio agree that whatever emoluments he receives, they are not great enough. But the remarks of leaders indicate that while they would like to do something, they scarce dare. In spite of his petition of agents, there seems to be little disposition to tinker with the law. This, after all, is only repeating the experience of past years. In 1915, the same interests came with an insubstantial bill and received some votes, perhaps a third of those in the House of Representatives. In 1917, the companies were banished from Ohio, but "Shu" labored on. If another election were not just around the corner, there were no such thing as a referendum, the bill to let the old interests in would go sailing thru, but the General Assembly, after all, only did a half way house and "emergencies" find all that they possess in the strangely enough, are losing their popularity.

What is considered a more smooth way around the wall of popular opinion to the end sought is a plan to tinker the machinery of the Ohio Industrial Commission. If it can only be placed in charge of men hostile to it and hostile enough there will be no need to destroy by a direct frontal attack. The many obligations to be paid off with the reorganization scheme and not the least is the proposal to invite enemies of the workers' compensation law into the Industrial Commission. The strange thing is that the first positive steps were taken on the very day when the representatives of labor and the representatives of the Ohio Manufacturers Association had reached an agreement on the principle that the general terms of the existing law should be retained unchanged upon the statute book and that only minor changes to correct abuses should be made. All of which is submitted for consideration.

When three officials last week laid down their official duties, a general verdict of good service went with them to private life. Notwithstanding there was attempt by the state administration to blacken them. The men to whom these lines refer are H. S. Riddle, I. S. Guthery and J. S. Creamer. Creamer was a Willis appointee but his party seems to have forgiven him this time. The other two were elected to the term through a peculiar set of circumstances but no one will be heard to say that Creamer has been a failure in any of the offices he held. He cleaned out the office of Treasurer of State and he left the Board of Administration clear of suspicion. Guthery was a recognized business farmer and his services at his post will be missed. Both men expressed themselves rather vigorously upon the conduct of the Governor in a statement recently given out and as they both lay their hands upon their hearts in discussing their transactions in the board, they propose to remain on guard to see that no false witness is borne against them. If necessary they may go further and start themselves out, store hickory clubs to protect reputations and get so that mud batteries can be spiked only with a little firm insistence upon rights.

"Justice poisoned at its source" will be the slogan used to urge upon public attention the alleged necessity of insuring to all persons accused of offenses the right which the Constitution seems to guarantee to all. This is the right of trial by jury. The issue is to be presented again to the courts. It will be pushed in the General Assembly and anywhere and everywhere that men still profess an interest in fundamental justice. There have come to notice many cases thrust out Ohio where men have been dragged to distant parts of their counties, where the trial was made up in advance and a half way house and "emergencies" find all that they possess in the world and more so. It will prove interesting to watch the antics of those who are forced to meet this issue, whether it be in legislative or judicial tribunals. Does the Constitution as Abraham Lincoln would have put it, mean what plain men understand it to mean or can it be twisted upon to do violence to fundamental principles? In Ohio, today, men are denied trial by jury under the terms of law because prison sentences are no part of the sentence. Will this remain the law of a civilized state?

One of the stories told in the New York World in its series of articles which have sought to paint a few dark spots on the genial Harry M. Daugherty soon to be Attorney General of the United States was that the Hon. George H. Clark, of Canton, chairman of the Republican state executive committee, vainly tried to get President-elect Harding to ditch his pre-concept on manager. That yarn has been denied in no detail however and it may be true. If it is, it may be said that Mr. Clark has not been alone in his wish and that others have met with just as much success as he has. The same plan was tried before the Ohio primary in Columbus, Cincinnati, and way stations but Mr. Harding stood by his friend. With the majority of people, who suspect all political manipulations and of the tales they tell on each other, the firm adherence of Mr. Harding to Mr. Daugherty has been a point in his favor. They admire the courage whether it is "right or wrong."

Of course, the nomination of Mr. Daugherty has soured many of the old Progressives to sticking up their heads and muttering imprecations on those responsible for the new legal officer is the best hated man among those old followers of Theodore Roosevelt. The fact that he entertained the Colonel here on his last appearance in Columbus never made a particle of difference with them. They have asserted that they never will stand for this thing and they have whispered what awful things they would do. But pschaw! They really knew it all along. Anyone had a right to expect last November that Mr. Daugherty would be named. And when he goes into office it will be with an open book and a clean slate with a new record to be made. If that record is good, the Progressive complaint will amount to nothing. If it is bad, there will be so many things to talk about that 1912 history will be only a minor detail. For one thing the legal profession rallied splendidly to the defense of the new chief legal officer, upholding him along two distinct lines. One was that he is honest, loyal and great as a lawyer and will fill the place with credit and add dignity to Ohio as the successful of Hon. Judson Harmon, the last United States Attorney General from Ohio. Another is that if he picks out a good Solicitor General, he will be invaluable on the political side and as a general adviser. Many interviews have been given, warmly praising him and this form of adulation must be sweet to the future Attorney General, after so many knocks and kicks showered upon him by opponents and jealous persons.

Faced by a strongly financed movement to repeal the protective features of the workers' compensation in the Burns bill and defeated at every turn, the labor group of the General Assembly, pitifully small and impotent that it is, has come to ask where are the friends of labor. The eight-hour bill was killed, the minimum wage bill is practically dead and the Governor has "sentenced" favoring it and the occupational disease compensation bill is to be whittled away to nothing. The full crew of events has given real and abounding joy. Labor, too, is confronted with treachery on the part of some minor leaders who are reported "sold out" on the liability insurance bill and there is a big row over the matter now.

It took a week for the senators to do it but they finally knocked the Highways committee of investigation loose from the strange hold grip of the Attorney General's office. Hereafter, the Chairman, James R. Hopley, is to be the publicity agent when star chamber sessions are to be held. Too much is enough, as Potash and Peabody would say, and the policy of placing the power of the committee in the hands of an office that is itself to be reviewed, was traveling too far, entirely too far, even Representative C. C. Crabbe thought.

It may fall out that there will be a very minimum of school legislation in spite of the unprecedented number of bills that have been presented at this session. The conviction is arising that the rural school code is working pretty well and that proposals to disturb it have selfish rather than public purposes. An exception may be made of the plan to get rid of district superintendents who do not seem to be satisfactory and yet all hands agree that the individual counties may regulate this matter if they will only try. Thru some strange agency the notion has been spread that if there is a bad official in some office the thing to do is to change the law instead of getting rid of the worthless officer.

Real consideration seems to lie ahead of the teachers' tenure bill for the first time since it has made its appearance. Like other issues that are pending this, too, revolves around the good of the teacher rather than the good of the schools. One who made a study of the bill said that he failed to find where it will work to the good of the schools. He said he did not doubt that there have been injustices and tyrannical acts upon the part of superintendents, yet the treatment of the teachers' position as if it were a vested right rather than a consecrated service, he opined, is hardly not right. "Labor never asked legislation as strong as this," was his comment. Like other school matters, the bill is to be studied very carefully and organized lobbies, either for or against it, subordinated to the one big issue that the student found, the welfare of the schools.

Only a beginning and a very modest one at that can be made under the industrial rehabilitation proposed in the Burns bill. Federal legislation and a state law seem to be the only means of this sort that can be expected on paper than work in actual practice. Difficulties more numerous and more perplexing than seems possible when the issue is viewed in a speculative retical way. The principal to take advantage of opportunity to take advantage of opportunity, because of the law travel in a rut along the same track and cannot be one of common sense. As proposed, the task is to be ed upon the schools which ready will night overburden various tasks of many kinds.

LOCAL POLITICS FROST-BITTEN

Publicity Brings Tightening of "Guard Lines"

HORNER ON JOB TEMPORARILY

Allen-co Gives and Takes Away a Congressman

(By J. W. FISHER.)

In the language of the oldtime country correspondent of the county seat weekly newspaper when there was little or nothing in the community to write about, "news are scarce."

This same might very appropriately be applied to the local political situation right now.

Having been through the rigors of the redoubtable, close-mouthed and maintaining of a close guard line by the makers in the G. O. P. political camp have decided that their own ways within the premises of the executive headquarters, third floor rear in the Holmes block.

Since the Craig-Gray-Thompson commissioner contest has come to an end, the political volcano isn't working overtime in Allen-co. Gray runs the white flag of peace, but is agreeing to meet the decision of the court and the account of the ballots and permit Craig to have the four-year term, counting himself with two years. And had a few months of pleasant anticipation, anyway.

Then there's the postoffice situation. That's quiet too. The local hopefuls haven't received positive information that there are going to be postoffice vacancies in the county for some time to come. Hence, there's a lull in activities revolving around that alluring candle.

For the most part, the boys are just standing around, hopeless like, waiting for something to eventuate. But with bigger state and national affairs absorbing attention, watchful waiting isn't prolific of results. What with cabinet making for future Washington work and Governor Harry Davis picking a cabinet of his own, while filling positions by appointment from which Democrats have been ousted, bag and baggage, all eyes are glued on the national and state centers of political turbulence. As a consequence, the little pleasures such as officials ignoring the "rule by committee" gang, the fight among officials-elect for long terms and the uncertainty of political plums soon ripe for picking, have wilted like a peony on a frosty night.

There's an old nursery rhyme that runs like this: "Little Jack Zorner, he sat in a corner, eating his Christmas pie."

Our own Jack Horner is eating pie tonight over in the central Ohio village on the Scioto river, where the big penitentiary is located and where yard sounds emanate from the pile of stone in the center of the village designated as the state house when the legislature is in session.

But Jack is only sampling the pie. His cut came in the form of a tender of the post of assistant to Adjutant General Florence, after his predecessor who served exactly one month grandiloquently announced that he had resigned.

Jack wants the job and he doesn't want it. It's a pleasant sort of task, this assistant adjutant-general, but Jack isn't much enamored of the peace time nor the war time salary. Not attaches to the holding of the job. Nothing loath to try it out, Jack, donned his regimentals as a Lieutenant-Colonel and for two weeks has been demonstrating the undeniably fat around the army workshop at Columbus that he's well versed in military lore and that he's forgotten more than a lot of other fellows poking around the place ever knew.

Whether Jack will remain in the adjutant-general's department during the term of his superior is contingent upon the generosity or lack of generosity of the legislature in increasing or refusing to increase the annual stipend that would be his, regularly and unfailingly, in the form of a check of sufficient dimensions to insure that the wolf could be chased away from the door.

Other words, more lucid-like, the salary of the assistant adjutant general isn't sufficiently generous to attract Jack away from a thriving mercantile business in the hub of the business, maw of northwestern Ohio, better known as Lima, (Ohio) as the announcer at the prize fight. Jack fails to add when speaking of the best town on earth.

Until Jack decides to stay permanently or kick out of his uniform, he'll continue on the job in the Scioto village. And you have the best wishes of this old truth teller, Jack, no matter what you may finally decide. The latest word from Columbus is that Jack is still serving temporarily.

Any one of you ordinary folks who have ever had the experience of waiting on a cold night in a poorly heated railway station at a junction point in strange territory for a late train, can easily imagine what it has been to our fellow townsman John L. Cable to wait for the coming of March 4th, when the bands will play in Washington and W. G. will become President and John L. a Congressman at the same time.

Ordinarily, John is a patient citizen, but who could blame him for being anxious for the time when he'll meet Congressman B. F. Wiley, ambulating back to private life and a law practice, with just enough time to say: "Hello, Ben; good-bye!"

But then, Ben has had his little fling from peddling government garden seeds to impeaching Judge Landis and getting on the front pages, picture in all. It's now John's turn and John L. probably doesn't expect to comport himself in a manner other than is customary until he passes the "baby meeting" stage, there are just a lot of admiring friends and acquaintances—political and otherwise—in Lima and all over the fourth district, who are banking on John's ability to rise head and shoulders—figuratively speaking—over the small fry that slips into every congress.

It's an honor to have one's fellow citizen elected to congress and Lima is appreciative of the fact that John is going to help save the country that the Democrats were accused of almost giving away in a league of naught. But it isn't likely that John will appear of a farewell from his fellow-citizens that takes the form of an outpouring of the people with brass band accompaniment at the depot. Such a thing would be more embarrassing to John than getting hold of salt instead of sugar for his coffee in a public restaurant. He's too practical for anything of that sort and besides it's a cinch he'd just naturally blush and perspire like a bashful lover who sits down on his girl's best hat.

Seriously, this palladium of free speech and liberty wishes for John L. Cable all the success and fame and other things that can come to a Representative in the National Congress. That he will labor with honesty, diligence, fidelity and earnestness in behalf of the country and its institutions, needs not the saying to reassure those of us who know him.

Lima is to have an unusual experience. We're simply trading one good citizen for another, with Washington. As John goes, Ben returns. Good-bye, John; good luck! Hello, Ben; welcome home!

Genuinely alarmed over the prospect of Governor Davis really "canning" a goodly number of the political plums that have been hanging tantalizingly low on the state tree, Columbus, party leaders are wondering if Davis really meant it or whether he was just fooling, when he talked about reducing state expenses by lopping off "twigs" and leaving a lot of salary drawers out in the cold, cruel world, in midwinter at that.

Of course, the party plum pickers want the other fellows fired, but they don't want the places abolished; not by a jugful. They're been waiting four long years to get back into a position where they can lord it over the fellows who nosed them into the oats box and just as the sun of their hopes had almost reached the zenith, the fear that Davis meant business on that expense-reducing chatter smote them like a colored man who imagines he sees a ghost while passing a graveyard on a dark night.

But fear not, ye faithful toters of water for the party pachyderm. Even tho the Governor was in earnest, (tho he probably wasn't) the party bosses have decreed otherwise. For how in thunder are they going to maintain a party organization when there are no plums to toss? That's what they want to know, so they do. They're not in favor of reducing the state payroll, even if Harry did promise to do it. Harry may be Governor, but he isn't running the Republican party—not altogether. So it's likely he'll have to revise his little plans to suit the needs of his party.

And with the legislative cutups pulling off such stunts as they have been doing, it's going to take a mighty strong G. O. P. machine with lots of well-salaried parts to prevent disaster being visited when the voters get busy at the polls again.

Watchfully waiting, hoping and praying, that the people of Ohio would rise up in their might and wrath and smite the god-dung party that choked their neat little source of income by the enactment of the workmen's compensation law, the private liability companies chortled with glee when their prayers were answered last November.

Unable to get a toe hold on the impregnable rock of workmen's protection by the state while a Democratic administration sat on the lid at Columbus, the crowd that always hated the state compensation measure like a rattlesnake has thrown caution to the winds and has taken a step that is somewhat akin to the saying "fools rush in where angels fear to tread."

Altho the new administration is little more than a month old and hasn't gotten its feet fairly on the ground, the private liability companies have succeeded in getting something like 2312 employers of labor in the state to sign a petition asking the legislative body to modify the compensation law in such a manner as to break the monopoly of the state in this line of insurance, which has proven the greatest boon that ever fell to the lot of hundreds and thousands of men and women who labor.

It need not be said that labor leaders will fight the move that is recognized as the entering wedge in a splendid plan to destroy the Ohio supreme court in a recent decision guaranteed complete state monopoly in liability insurance, there was only one thing that could be done—attack the law thru the legislature.

The Ohio board of commerce is endeavoring to convince the legislature that employers want private companies to regain a hold on the lucrative business, but that organization of course doesn't attempt to tell the lawmakers what the employers think about it. That would probably spoil the little game that it apparently being cooked up.

Those who labor and who know what the compensation law continued as it now is means to them, had best bestir themselves to action. The danger that menaced the law under a former G. O. P. administration and which the people kicked out for daring to endeavor to tamper with it, is here again, stronger than ever. And there you are.

the pitiful part of it all is that the very folks who are "angry" for "hands off" the compensation law, in large numbers aided in bringing about the very situation they punish others for attempting to create only four years ago. Eternal vigilance is the price of liberty!

Opinion has been and likely will continue to be divided on the question of the advisability of the Democratic party designating James M. Cox as its candidate for the presidency four years hence, but the fact remains that as a politician and a wise bird, he's to all the ways and wiles of the game, the former Governor isn't from yesterday.

This fact is proven abundantly by the net results of a clever attempt on the part of the McAdoo Democrats in Ohio to get the skids under Chairman White of the Democratic committee and thru him remove James M. Cox as a next-time presidential possibility.

Here's how. At the San Francisco national Democratic convention it was mostly due to Cox influence that James M. Cox of Cleveland was made a member of the national committee from Ohio. Chairman White is the male member of the committee for this state. He had to be elected a member Moore of Youngstown to make him eligible for the chairmanship. The McAdoo crowd succeeded in getting the signature of Mrs. Pyke to a round robin letter seeking the retirement of White.

Governor Cox and his friends didn't know anything about it until the whole thing appeared in print. The attempt of the McAdoo folks collapsed like a busted balloon when Mrs. Pyke came out with a statement that she had signed the round robin under a misapprehension of its real meaning and that she repudiated it. Here again, stronger than ever. And there you are.

How To Round Out Your Face and Figure With Firm Healthy Flesh

Thin folks who want to firmly get some good, firm solid flesh on their bones, fill out the hollows and sunken cheeks with strong, healthy tissue and build up increased energy and vitality should try taking a little Vitamon with their meals. Vitamon is a tiny concentrated tablet containing those nourishing health-giving substances of nature—the vitamins—which Science now knows are destroyed in the cooking of most everyday foods.

If you are thin, underweight, haggard, drawn-looking or lack energy and endurance you will find it well worth while to make this simple test: First weigh yourself and measure yourself. Next take Vitamon—two tablets with every meal. Then weigh and measure yourself each week and continue taking Vitamon regularly until you are satisfied with your gain in weight and energy. It is not only a question of how much better you look and feel, or what your friends say and think—the scales and the tape measure will tell their own story.

IMPORTANT—While the amazing health-value of VITAMON has been clearly and positively demonstrated in cases of lack of energy, nervous troubles, anemia, indigestion, dizziness, skin, poor complexion and a generally weakened condition, it should be used by anyone who objects to having their weight increased to normal. All good druggists have it in stock.—Adv.

BUSINESS CONDITIONS

FRIDAY of the present week will witness a complete change in government for our Nation. It comes at a crisis-period similar to the inauguration of William McKinley in 1897, when labor the country over was out of work and the bread line had been the vogue thruout the winter months preceding.

War brought inflation, because things had to be done and done quickly. Price of doing them was secondary. It was do, or die. We have no patience with those croakers and back-biters who would delve into war expenditures and paint the enormity of the cost. Every day we saved in time was worth twice the money.

It is not easy to be plunged from peace into war; neither must we fret when we find it hard to forget war-time prices and their consequent high wage and return to peace wage and peace purchases.

Mr Harding is pledged to a business administration. Primarily this means readjustment of taxes, elimination of the so-called excess profits tax against business and much of the luxury taxes, both of which are in fact taxes against the public. Passing the buck to the next big one in line is over.

There is but one attitude for us all to assume whatever our station in life. It is to give an honest day's work to our country. The higher law of supply and demand will adjust labor wage and salaries alike. Manipulation of compensation was possible in war time, when the government was the buyer, but today you and 120,000,000 other voters are the sole buyers and buying is for you to determine.

Prices of no commodities on earth as a whole can be raised in 1921 for buyers will not buy. It is the same with wages; you can demand all you like, but if it is too much the answer will be closed factories, no building, no freight, nothing doing. Employers are anxious to employ at living wages, but they cannot employ at war-time wages.

There is nothing the matter with business except delay, and this delay is being rapidly broken here there, everywhere, until shortly we shall see all over Ohio and the country, a general resumption of industry.

KILL THE RATS

MANY CITIES thruout the country are making organized drives on rats as a part of their Spring clean-up campaign. The plan is good and should be a benefit to Lima when the time comes for doing our annual brightening up of things about the city.

Rats cause more waste than any other of our pests. The loss occasioned by them annually cannot be accurately estimated, but it is enormous. They also are instrumental in spreading disease and to them many fires each year may be charged.

Time spent in helping to exterminate this rodent will net a big return. Lima has its share of rats and officials would do well to organize a drive against them this spring.

MAKING HOMES POSSIBLE

VARIOUS sections of the country are promoting the building of homes in a number of different ways to relieve the general shortage of houses. While the plans are not always similar, they are based on the principle of making loans to worthy persons wishing to erect homes possible without too much red tape.

Building and loan associations are doing a big work in this respect as are also the banks but their resources in some cases are not adequate to take care of the calls for money. The state of South Dakota has just passed a law making it possible for money to be obtained from the state for this purpose, which appears to be a very desirable scheme when local financial institutions reach their limit.

Every possible encouragement should be given to get homes built at this time. Home owners make better citizens and better citizens make a better country in which to live.

AS WE PASS THRU

THERE is soon to come before our general assembly a bill making legal certain amusements on Sunday; a marked contrast to recent proposed legislation enforcing Blue Laws upon the commonwealth.

Life is too often taken super-seriously by our people; rather than regarded as a lease for a certain but designated time, it is viewed as some crucible in which we are to be restricted by don'ts and denial. There was a play a season or two ago, a Barrie production interpreted by one Gillette, in which was reflected life and its transiency; its work and its pleasures; and a cardinal speaking line of the distinguished Gillette, was this: "We Pass This Way but Once."

As we pass thru, is there to be naught of enjoyment in the passing, must we confine ourselves to strict limits, must we narrow ourselves to set edicts of centuries ago interpreted by recluses of this century; so-called intellectuals telling us what is good and what is bad for the other fellow? Or, rather should we not follow the law of Organized Labor of a few years ago, with its "eight hours for work, eight hours for sleep and eight hours for play."

There is nothing harmful in outdoor sports or indoor amusement of the character now seen on the screen. Sundays, with the mornings given to devotion, should certainly be free, afternoon and evening. If not, what is life all about; why the striving the saving, the denial, the sorrows, if for no more than a barred-in existence where laughter must be replaced with long-faced silence and too-often by hypocritical and fanatical penance?

We believe the people of Ohio have a right to their amusement of the sort they care for, not the sort allotted by some sect or clan attempting to make the world over as they would have it, and change it again next week and next year.

This is a grand old summer resort if we will but make it such; and no one is the worse morally or physically or spiritually because of the amusements enjoyed.

THE CORNSTALK CLUB

A GREAT deal is being said in the newspapers of the state in these latter days concerning the Cornstalk club at Columbus, the sobriquet that has been applied to the members of the legislature from the rural districts, who follow farming as an occupation, or those who are directly interested in the agricultural welfare of the state.

They are gaining prominence in the consideration of taxation measures for the most part. John H. Chester of Paulding-co is the president and John A. Hummon of Putnam-co the secretary. With a frankness that is commendable, the members of the Cornstalk club divulge the object of the organization, so that there may be no misapprehension as to the real facts in the case, so far as they intend them to be.

Declaring that the farmer members of the legislature have banded themselves together for the purpose of securing a square deal for agriculture and for all interests and to protect the taxpayers of Ohio, the Cornstalkers are in favor of reducing the expenses of government instead of increasing land and home values to get more tax for tax spenders to spend. They favor a thoro investigation of the payroll of every public office and the amount of service rendered and the cutting out of all needless expenditures in state, county and municipal government.

The spirit of the declaration is commendable, but results are slow and real intent is practically lost in the whirl of the political machinery in Columbus. However, brave souls that they are, these men are battling on, albeit they may be fighting a losing cause, with political expediency as the gaunt wolf stalking them.

Things are really going back to normal in Lima. Says the "Democrat": "It is declared that quite a number of women in Lamar who used to do washings have not only been away from the suds and wringer for some time, but have been sending their own washings to the laundry. Now, however, there is a change. A good many of these same women are not only doing their own washing again but are once more out doing washings for others."

IMPORTANT, IF TRUE

A well-hatted young man in evening clothes stood in front of an ex-cafe after midnight, holding up a sign that held a great clock. Said ex-cafe place is now a bank. The young man was weeping.

When a policeman came along to find out what troubled him it was some time before the young man could restrain his sobs to reply. At last he said: "I was in a thinking of the orange blossom cocktails and the plates of salted nuts they used to serve here."

Then he straightened up, looked at the policeman and said frankly: "Officer, is it true that we are going to have prohibition?"—Odd McIntyre.

UNCLE SAM—PILOT

Things ain't looking none too good. But let's keep on sawin' wood; Clouds appear a trifle thick, But if I was asked to pick Out a shelterin' place to stay Till the storm goes by, I'd say: "Let me be right where I am— I've got faith in Uncle Sam."

Right now, fur as I can see, There's no better place to be; Run the flags an' the countries thru, An' the old red, white and blue Seems more fitted fer rough weather Than the rest o' them together. Nail this slogan up fer me— Here is where I want to be.

Troubles? Sure, we've got our share, But not more than we can bear, An' our cares ain't half so bad As the ones our fathers had; So, if they came thru all right, Looks to me as tho we might. Anyhow, here's one who'll stick To the flag thru thin or thick.

When the weather starts to blow, It's consol'n' if you know The pilot of the ship Has a strong an' steady grip An' knows how to take the seas; So in the troubled days like these, Let me say right glad I am That our pilot's Uncle Sam.

WHAT THE STARS PREDICT

This is a most fortunate day. Favorable stars rule clergymen and churchmen; the latter will exert much influence on public affairs during the next few months. Writers, especially poets, will know success in the near future; all writings are under a favorable rule. There will be much agitation for reform, by churches and newspapers. Many notable weddings will occur immediately after Easter. Persons born on this day will have a successful year if they avoid worry. Children born today, will be clever and will succeed in several lines.

CABLE READY FOR HIS NEW JOB

Leaves Monday for Washington, as Member of Congress.

OUTLINES VIEWS IN PART

Gives Views on Tariff and Re-funding of War Debt.

It is hoped to be of some service to the government and to the people of the country. Cable said Saturday night, as he was engaged in closing up his local affairs, preparatory to his departure Monday, with Mrs. Cable and their children for Washington, D. C., where on March 4 Cable will take the oath of office as a member of the national body of lawmakers. With such a large Republican majority in congress," Cable said, "I believe that work is a good motive and I intend to follow it."

TAXES AND TARIFF BIG ISSUES
Taxes and tariff are two of the main issues confronting the incoming administration. The new congress faces a tax rate said to be 10 per cent higher than ever before, except a year or two after the close of the civil war. This increase is partly due to the tremendous war debt.

Cable looks with favor upon the suggestion that all bonded indebtedness to the war be re-funded into one long-time bond issue at a rate of four and one-fourth per cent, tax exempt. He believes an issue of this kind would decrease the present burden on the national treasury and spread the financial burden over several generations to come.

Making and passing a tariff bill is a serious business," the congressman is said. "The Fordney bill is in the nature of a temporary aid to home industry, particularly the farmer, thru our present crisis and adjustment."

Since the war, Uncle Sam stands as a creditor of almost all other countries. Larger exports to the United States and smaller imports from America are desired by these European countries in order that they may pay their debts to us with goods rather than cash. On the other hand if we should build our tariff wall so high that it keeps out all foreign made goods, then each country might adopt a like high tariff in their ability to buy from us depends on their finding markets here. We may be willing that Europe and Asia ship us some goods, but not at a price with which the American producer cannot compete.

CABLE'S TARIFF VIEWS

The American people are opposed to the present situation, I believe," Cable said, "that permit a foreigner to market his goods in the United States at prices which are running his competing producer here. I believe in a tariff the schedule of which shall be upon the principle of a duty equal to the difference in cost of producing here and foreign costs, with a fair and equal treatment to all our American producers. There should be economy in the management of our government. One method is by consolidation of many bureaus in Washington and the elimination of duplication. The public pays the bills and salaries of officials engaged in doing the same work that other bureaus and other officials are charged with performing."

There are many other vital issues to be solved by the new administration. New and amended laws will aid but not solve them or bring the country back to anything like a normal condition. It will require time, patience and the cooperation of the American people."

Alfred F. Reek, newspaper man of Peru and Davenport, appointed by Cable as his private secretary, was in Lima Saturday and stated that he also would leave Monday for Washington to go on the job simultaneously with his chief.

MAKE HEADWAY IN GAS RATE CASE

Civic Bodies Decide on Plan as Aid to Situation.

COUNCIL WILL MEET TUESDAY

Ask Council and Company to Accept Expert Report.

Unanimous approval of the proposed plan of arbitration of the gas controversy as recommended by the joint gas committee of the Lima Chamber of Commerce and the Lima Manufacturers' association, was expressed at noon Saturday when officials of the East Side Improvement association, the South Side Improvement association and the executive boards of the two associations represented by the committees heard a resolution outlining its specifications. As a result, the directors of the Chamber of Commerce and the executive committee of the Manufacturers' association, in separate sessions at the conclusion of the joint meeting, formally went on record approving the plan. Pledges of the most kind of cooperation in assisting to work out the idea were given by the improvement association of both sides.

SEE SUCCESS IN PROSPECT
A special subcommittee that has spent hours on details of the scheme during the past three days was instructed by Saturday's joint meeting to make an effort to have a special meeting of the city council called for consideration of the subject Tuesday night, when they will present the complete outline. Council will meet as desired.

The fundamental of the plan is the securing of an order to investigate and make a public report on a fair and equitable gas rate for the city. Such expert is being considered only on the condition that he is approved in advance of any contract by both the city council and the Lima Natural gas company and that both bodies after approving the choice made of the individual, who must be "above reproach, whose report cannot be questioned," shall agree to abide by his decision, whatever that may be.

Chairman A. C. CaJacob of the Commerce Chamber gas committee, in presenting the report and recommendation, outlined the belief of the joint committee that council and the gas company are now so deadlocked that neither side will budge unless some arbitration plan can be started.

TALKING CHILD SLEEPS

BABBLES NINE DAYS WITHOUT STOPPING

TOUCH OF CHIROPRACTOR GIVES NEEDED REST

Snaps Vertebrae Into Place and Girl Drops Into Slumber

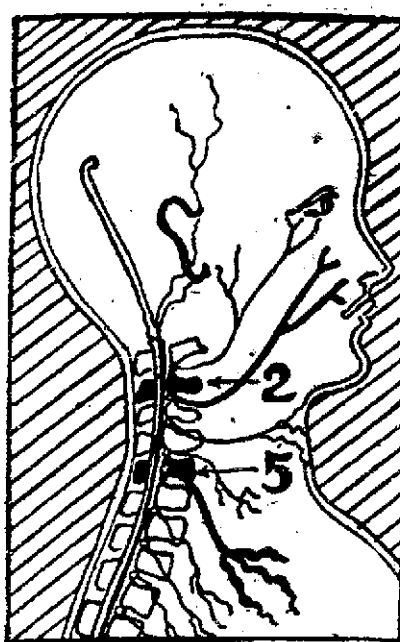

Chart of Girl's Spine

This diagram shows the disordered vertebrae which are said to have caused the strange illness of little Miriam Rubin, who has talked incessantly for 212 hours. The second vertebra was found to be slightly out of alignment to the right. The fifth was similarly dislocated. Following the readjustment by Dr. Berger, the child showed almost immediate improvement, sleeping yesterday for the first time in a week.—Diagram by Dr. Frank H. Seubold of Chicago.

MIRIAM RUBIN
The Little Victim of Talking Sickness

Dr. Paul O. Berger, chiropractor of Racine, whose treatment stilled the child's voice of the little sufferer and gave her an hour's deep slumber after 212 hours of constant talking.

After talking helplessly for 212 hours in defiance of every remedial effort known to medical science, little 8-year-old Miriam Rubin finally lapsed into a profound slumber yesterday morning. For an hour the childish voice, which had become scarcely audible because of the physical strain, was stilled.

One week of incessant prattling had so weakened the little Waukegan girl that on Saturday night physicians pronounced her condition as extremely critical. It was feared she might succumb to a nervous collapse unless some method could be found for quieting her.

Dr. Berger Volunteers
This strange malady had baffled specialists. Every form of sedative had been administered, but to no avail. Finally Dr. Paul Berger, a chiropractor of Waukegan, asserted confidently that he could save the child's life and pleaded for the opportunity. Dr. R. H. T. Nesbitt, the family physician, and two other consultants agreed.

All other treatments were immediately suspended and Dr. Berger made an examination. The child was placed in a chair, her back bared to the waist. The chiropractor placed a pad beside him containing a chart of the spine and its vertebrae.

Finds Vertebrae Sprung
Then he began running trained fingers along the spinal column, much as a musician runs the scale on a piano, and making checks upon the chart. "Here it is," said Dr. Berger. "As I suspected the second and fifth vertebrae have been sprung out of place. One of them has pinched the nerves which control the organ of speech. The other, perhaps, is causing her wakefulness and her high fever. If you will place your fingers in this position, Dr. Nesbitt, you will observe the misalignment."

Dr. Nesbitt agreed with the diagnosis.

"And now," said Dr. Berger, "to spring them back into place."

The chiropractor's strong hands exerted pressure upon the child's small back. There was an audible snap. The child emitted a sigh.

Responds by Sleep
Shortly thereafter her temperature dropped four degrees and she lapsed into the first slumber she has had for a week.

"There will be more trouble," said Dr. Berger. "The muscles will again pull the vertebrae out of alignment. Recurring treatment will be necessary until this abnormality is overcome. But I hope that we have struck the right track."

When she awakened she immediately began babbling again about "teacher," her "dolls," "mammy" and other objects closest to her heart. But she talked less rapidly and more coherently, and last night fell asleep again for an hour and a half.

Her fever subsided during the past twelve hours and is now near normal.

Dr. Nesbitt stated the improvement in the child's condition was quite marked and he believed that she would survive.

Frantic over the doom that hung over their child unless some medical aid could be found, the anxious parents have sought the advice of specialists from all parts of the country.

A hasty search of records disclosed no case exactly similar.

Experts suspected that the weird ailment was a sister malady to sleeping sickness, but could not essay an authoritative opinion as to its origin. The Rubin residence became a vertiginous clinic, with specialists meeting intermittently in studious consultation.

It was a keen human interest in the case that led Dr. Berger to ask for the privilege of proving his contention that the disorder originated in the delicate nerve centers in the spinal column. The doctor has a daughter, Beatrice, of the same age as Miriam, and felt more than a purely professional interest in the case.

Chiropractor's Statement
"Examination revealed that one of the vertebrae of the neck was subluxated to the right. This may have caused the sleeplessness and the talkativeness," Dr. Berger said.

"The fifth cervical vertebra was slightly dislocated, which may have accounted for the pains about the shoulders and arms. This resulted in an impingement of the nerves emerging from the spinal column, causing disorder in the organs in which they terminated."

A fall or some such sudden violence is assigned as the original cause of the difficulty. It is believed to have been aggravated by the interpretative dancing which Miriam had been studying recently.

Spinal Content Tested

Examination has revealed that otherwise the child is enjoying normal health. Dr. Isaac Abt, expert neurologist, of Chicago, made a careful examination of the child Saturday and tapped the spinal column for a specimen of the content. After analysis of this specimen yesterday, the eminent physician stated that there was no indication of any malignant disease."

by a method of scientific adjustment corrects these spinal defects, relieves the pressure on the nerves and removes the cause of disease. With normal conditions restored, the life-giving currents have full power to repair and strengthen, and health results in a natural way, without the use of drugs or surgery. No matter what the ailment, experience proves that it can be relieved through Chiropractic (KI-RO-PRAK-TIC) adjustments of certain parts of the spine.

The sick should not be discouraged, even though they have sought relief for years and tried every known method of health.

The net work of nerves which carries the normal flow of life giving energy to every organ and tissue is responsible for the health of the body. These nerves are distributed through the spinal column.

If through accidents, blows, strains, or unnatural curvature the moveable bones of the spine become slightly displaced, they press on the nerves and obstruct the free passage of the health-giving currents. The organs or tissues fed by the obstructed nerves naturally become weakened and diseased. Pressure on the nerves leading to the stomach, for instance, is often the cause of stomach trouble.

STORIES OF SILKS FOR SILK WEEK

AT BLUEM'S

West Market at Elizabeth

First Silk Culture

Chinese myths date the culture of silk back to 2640 B. C., almost 3,200 years before its nature was understood in Europe.

One of the three emperors to whom the Chinese ascribe the beginning of their ancient customs was Huang-Ti, who is said to have invented the making of garments, which possibly means an improvement in weaving. He instructed his Empress, Si-Ling-Chi to experiment with the wild silk worms, which lived on the mulberry trees, to see if they could be raised by the people.

Whether the silk in their cocoons had previously been, like linen or wool, not reeled, but spun, and then made into cloth, is not stated, but seems probable. The Empress collected a large number of the worms from the mulberry trees, learned how to feed and raise them, and what is much more important, how to reel or unwind the silk filaments from their cocoons.

While this account is only a legend, it emphasizes the fact that silk culture was known in China from time immemorial. A number of notices concerning it in the oldest Chinese books confirm this statement. Confucius, for example, about 500 B. C., noted that the Emperor and his vassals maintained, near a brook, a government nursery for mulberry trees and silk worms. It was then that the custom for lots to be drawn by the ladies of the three palaces and for the lucky ones thus chosen to be sent to the nursery to care for the worms.

In the last Spring month the young Empress was wont to purify herself and offer a sacrifice to the Goddess of the silk worms. She, herself would go to the fields and gather mulberry leaves. The raising of the silk worms was so important that at this season she would dispense with the waiting women who sewed and embroidered for her, and forbid similar work for the noble ladies and ministers' wives in order that all might give their attention to the culture of the worms. As this suggests, the silk industry in ancient China was considered so vital to the prosperity of the people as to be interconnected with various religious rites.

Early Records

From a compilation by the Chinese government of the early notices and rules in regard to silk culture, it is possible to get a very good idea of the methods they employed even in the earliest, as well as mediaeval times. There are also several paintings on antique porcelains and a number of quaint wood cuts by ancient Chinese artists, which serve to visualize the industry and give something of its atmosphere as it existed in those far off days. Low-Show, for example, in 1210 produced a whole series of 46 wood cuts showing the processes of agriculture and silk culture which had already been in use from time immemorial.

The industry naturally fell into great divisions of raising the mulberry trees, producing cocoons, reeling, and weaving the silk.

It was early recognized that there were two great species of mulberry trees—the loo, or large mulberry, which was common in the north, and the king, or dwarf mulberry, which was native in the south. The king was more hardy, but the loo had larger and more abundant leaves. For this reason the Chinese early learned to graft a slip from the large on to one from the dwarf mulberry, and to raise the trees from such slips, with the dwarf one furnishing the roots. Oil cakes and decayed fish were used for fertilizer. As the tree grew it was carefully pruned by cutting off the central branches, so as to make it spread and increase the foliage.

The briefest outline of the ancient Chinese rules for the raising of the silk worm will suggest what patient, painstaking care the industry demanded.

Ancient Europe

At how early a date silks were first imported to the countries around the Mediterranean we shall probably never know.

Aristotle and Pliny saw that Pamphila, the daughter of Plateas, king of the Island of Cos, was the first one who discovered the art of unravelling the heavy silks imported from the East, and re-weaving from them a tissue so translucent as to reveal and yet conceal a woman's charms.

This implies that silks were imported before 400 B. C. But for nine centuries after this, the only manufacture of silk in the Western world was such an unravelling and re-weaving of foreign goods.

There was, of course, no direct trade between the Mediterranean and China. Even the Romans bought their silks from the Persians who in turn got them from northern India, or from some other point to which they had been carried from China, while the Chinese themselves did all they could to keep the process of silk production a secret.

The fact that all silks were imported over difficult and dangerous routes, totalling thousands of miles, made them extravagances even for the emperors.

Nearchus, one of Alexander's generals, was said to have been the first Greek to don an all silk garment. Silk was introduced into Rome after the Parthian wars, 54 B. C., but remained rare and costly. Marcus Antonius sent an embassy to the Seres to make a treaty about importing silk, but without results, and it continued to be supplied through the Persians. The first Roman to wear pure silk robes was Hellogabalus, the Emperor (222 A. D.) and he was considered extremely self-indulgent for so doing.

The Emperor Aurelian (273 A.D.) refused to allow his wife to buy a silk shawl, because it was priced at literally its weight in gold.

The Emperor Tacitus made it unlawful to wear silk unless mixed with other materials.

In England

Silk was manufactured in England as early as 1261. At the marriage of the daughter of Henry III a thousand knights appeared with silk garments. In 1455 a committee of silk women protested against the importation of Italian silks. There was a guild of silk throwers at Spital fields, London, 1562. John Tice, in 1573, claimed to have perfected the making of tufted taffetas and wrought velvets. The first large manufacture of silk dates from about 1555, when Flemish weavers settled there, fleeing, after the capture of Antwerp, during the revolt of Flanders from Spain. Queen Elizabeth was greatly pleased with silk, instead of the previous cloth stockings, and was much disappointed because Lee's stocking machine, invented in 1589, knitted only wool stockings. Nine years later, however, he succeeded in knitting silk, and presented her with a pair.

James I was tremendously enthusiastic over silk, and just as fanatical against tobacco. He made a number of attempts to encourage the raising of silkworms in England, but after fourteen years of failure there, partly because of too damp a climate, shifted his efforts to the colonies.

A number of notable inventions marked the close of the Seventeenth Century.

In 1671 Edmund Blood obtained a patent for carding and spinning waste silk, which was probably the first successful attempt in Europe to do so. A patent of 1687 was to use a device instead of a helper to draw the cords controlling the warp on a draw loom. In 1693 one was given Francis Pousset for weaving silk crepe. In fact, the influx of the Huguenot weavers in 1835 fairly established that branch of the trade.

There was as yet no thoroughly successful mill for throwing or twisting silk in England. But in 1713 John Lombe, of Derby, went to Italy and got a job in the guise of a common laborer in one of the great Italian silk throwing mills, besides bribing two workmen to let him in after hours. He studied the process, made drawings of the machines by night, and corrected them again from his observations in the mill. The three were discovered and he escaped to a ship at peril of his life. On his return to England, he built the first great silk throwing mill there.

In France

In France the silkworm was known and experimented with several centuries before its culture was successful there. It is believed that the first white mulberry tree to be planted in France, was brought from Syria by Gualap de St. Aubon, on his return from the second Crusade about 1147 A. D. It was planted near Montmehart and, what seems very remarkable, was still standing in 1810.

The weaving of silk seems to have been begun in Lyons and Tours not long after 1200. There was, however, no silk as yet produced there. In 1480 Louis XI brought silkworms from Genoa, Venice and Florence, which were then under his power.

Charles VIII in 1494 renewed the effort to raise mulberry trees. In 1521 Francis I brought a large number of silk weavers from Milan, which was then held by France, to Lyons, and also attempted to grow mulberry trees.

The first nursery of white mulberry trees was set out by Fraucot, at Nîmes, in 1561, but was only partially successful. In 1603 Henry IV (of Navarre) really established sericulture in France. He brought Olivier de Serres, who was experienced in the industry to his aid, and the people were encouraged to raise both mulberry trees and silk worms.

Their first attempts, however, failed because the intricacies of the culture were not widely enough understood. The worms died, the cocoons were pierced, and the whole attempt seemed about to end in disaster, but Henry IV established his own nursery, under experienced silk growers, and through their careful attention soon produced an abundance of silk. Instructors were supplied for the people, who, when they saw a successful example before them, again took up the culture. The experiments at this time cost 1,500,000 livres, but established the industry.

Colbert, the chief minister under Louis XIV, also did a great deal for the development of silk culture, and the textures of Lyons and Tours became famous.

The industry was, however, hard hit by the revocation of the edict of Nantes in 1685. This drove some 400,000 Huguenots from France, many thousands of whom were engaged in the production and weaving of silk. It is said to have reduced the working looms of Lyons from 16,000 to 4,000, and at Tours from 11,000 to 2,000.

In America

The story of the silk industry in America exhibits every phase from the widest speculation to the utmost failure in one of its branches, and from the crudest beginnings to the most splendid success in another.

The first effort in America toward silk production, was when James I tried to compel the planters of Virginia to stop the cultivation of tobacco, and go to raising mulberry trees and silk worms to supply raw silk for the English factories. In 1623 it was decreed that any Virginia planter should be fined 10 lbs. if he did not cultivate at least ten mulberry trees for each hundred acres of his estate.

The raising of silk worms was encouraged in 1657, when the Virginia assembly offered 10,000 pounds of tobacco to any planter who should export 200 pounds worth of raw silk or cocoons in a single year; 5,000 pounds of tobacco to anyone producing 1,000 pounds of raw silk; or 4,000 pounds of tobacco to anyone producing silk exclusively.

The bounty was withdrawn in 1666 and renewed in 1669, but it was never claimed.

The fact was, that silk culture was not profitable in comparison with the raising of tobacco. It suffered from bad weaving, expert throwing or twisting, and inadequate cleaning. It was the policy of Parliament not to encourage the manufacture of silk in the Colonies, but only the raising, and the little silk cloth made was fuzzy, stiff and of poor color and lustre.

In Georgia, in 1732, a nursery of white mulberry plants was set out, and a clergyman experienced in silk culture was sent there to instruct the colonists. Land was given to settlers who would plant 100 mulberry trees for each 10 acres. In 1736 eight pounds of raw silk were sent to England and there thrown, woven and presented to the Queen. Parliament, in 1748, exempted silk produced in Georgia or Carolina from duty. In the same year a flature for reeling silk from the cocoons was built in Savannah in order to overcome the difficulty the individual growers had with this operation.

This Is ROTARY'S Birthday

Rotary is an organization composed of business and professional men, each of whom earnestly desire to grow in capability for service.

Rotary's Motto Is:

"He Profits Most Who Serves Best"

The word "profit," as used in the motto, it not profit in its popular sense, meaning pecuniary gain, but is the gain in character which the one who serves receives as he develops into a bigger, broader, better, and more useful member of society.

ROTARY

1921

In sixteen years, Rotary has grown to a membership of sixty-five thousand and is represented in more than eight hundred cities in five continents. Membership in Rotary has always been restricted to one member from each distinctive business or profession (although occasionally one additional representative from the same firm is permitted). This membership restriction is one of Rotary's greatest advantages. The varied membership secured in this way provides the widest possible number of viewpoints for the consideration of business and community questions.

The only obligations imposed by Rotary are: the maintenance of high business standards, a militant good citizenship, an unswerving loyalty to one's Government, attendance at meetings, active participation in movements fostered by the Club, and active membership in craft, civic, charitable and commercial organizations.

Rotary Seeks:

- The Betterment of the individual member.
- The Betterment of his business (both practically and ideally).
- The Betterment of his craft as a whole.
- The Betterment of his home, town, state, and country.

Rotary's Relation to Community Service

The duty of Rotarians to their community is briefly put in the injunction: "Be a good citizen." Rotary Clubs continually survey the field of community life, in order to ascertain Rotary's opportunity for service. As a general rule, the manifestation of Rotary's interest in community service work is expressed through the individual Rotarian's activity in the various local civic, charitable and commercial organizations.

Where these organizations are functioning well, it is a Rotarian's duty to work with the officers of the various local organizations in the accomplishment of their objects. Where it happens that any of the worth-while community service organizations are inefficient or have become inactive, it is the Rotarian's duty to work with his fellow members in such organization to make it thoroughly efficient and active in carrying out the purpose for which it was organized.

Many organizations have been strengthened and their spheres of usefulness enlarged through the activity of men who received inspiration in the Rotary Club.

Individual Rotarians in the various craft associations have aided in the formation and adoption of higher business standards.

Frequent public acknowledgment has been given by city officials and by the press for the assistance rendered local organization and local community movements by Rotarians.

There are specific instances, however, where service to the community demands that the Rotary Club shall act collectively, namely:

1. Where there is the need of a particular service for which there is no regularly established organization.
2. Where there is the need for a service which does not properly belong to any other existing organizations.

In both of such instances, the Rotary Club assumes the duty and works for the accomplishment of the service. With this limitation on concerted Rotary action so clearly defined, it is apparent that Chambers of Commerce and other local civic or charitable organizations need have no fear that Rotary will ever attempt to usurp any of their chosen functions.

As a few examples of collective Rotary action, note:

1. War-time services for the soldiers and sailors at home, en route, in the camps, and abroad. The British Rotary Clubs acted as hosts to the American and Canadian Expeditionary Forces quartered in the British Isles.
2. Organized efforts against vice in the territory surrounding Army cantonments in the Fit-to-Fight Campaign in the United States.
3. Activity of all Rotary Clubs in Boys' Work supplementing the local agencies in new needs, new work, or emergency services. Aside from these distinctly club activities, every Rotarian is urged to assist all worthy Boys' Work organizations and movements. Rotary considers Boys' Work one of its greatest opportunities for service.
4. The "Cross at Crossings" Campaign inaugurated to save pedestrians from injury or death at Philadelphia, Pa.
5. The Rotary Club acting for the United States Government as sales agents of excess Government food stock in the campaign against the high cost of living in Wheeling, W. Va.
6. Supplying crippled children of the poor with medical attention, artificial arms and legs, in Lima, Toledo and other Ohio towns.
7. Creating cordial relations and better understanding between the city man and the farmer at Vincennes, Ind., etc., etc., etc., etc.

As regards the relation between capital and labor, or, more properly expressed, as the Relation between Employers and Employees, it is the duty of every Rotarian to "set his own house in order"; that is, to establish intimate, friendly and cordial relations between the management and the employees. Hundreds of Rotarians have done this, and, assisted by Committees from among the employees, have worked out more equitable distributions of the profits, splendid welfare plans for the employees and their families, and a wonderful spirit of co-operation.

It is not Rotary's function to attempt to solve the questions of "open shop," wage scales, hours of labor, etc.

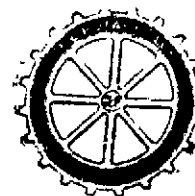

The Rotary Club does not act as a collecting agency for the raising of money for charitable or community needs, but it inspires its members to serve on Committees organized for this purpose. Rotarians were active on all war-time and Liberty Loan drives. No worthy money-raising campaign ever lacks the assistance of Rotarians.

Rotary rarely expresses itself through resolutions, nor do the local Clubs confine their actions on community matters to the mere passing of resolutions. When it does occur that an expression of opinion by resolution is necessary, Rotarian precedent requires that Rotary get behind the resolution and work to accomplish what it endorses.

Rotary is a non-partisan parliament. All subjects on which the respective political parties have taken sides, or on which the community has a divided interest, may be thoroughly discussed before and by the Clubs, but cannot properly be put to a vote to determine partisan Club action. The settlement of such questions naturally belongs to the local civic associations, in which the Rotarian members, equipped with complete and accurate knowledge of the issue the discussions in the Club, take action in accordance with their convictions.

OUSTED WHITE SOX PLAYER BELIEVES HE HAS BEEN "BLACK BALLED"—CRESCENTS TO PLAY COLUMBUS GROVE MAROONS THURSDAY

HERZOG APPEALS TO HEYDLER SEEKING ANOTHER CHANCE

BY HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK—Charley Herzog, released unconditionally from the Chicago Cubs recently Saturday sought an audience with John A. Heydler, president of the National League, to learn why he cannot "get work" in the league.

"Practically every team in the league needs an infielder—especially Philadelphia and Cincinnati, and yet, I'm facing the closed gate. I want to know the reason why," Herzog said.

He admitted that his "game was off" last season but blamed it to physical ailments, which he claims have been cured by an operation.

"I put the proposition up to two managers to take me south with them, at my expense to them and see what I do," he said. "All I ask is a contract if I convince them I can still play," he said.

HAS HAD OFFERS

Herzog has had two berths offered him in the American Association, two in the Pacific Coast League, and a managerial position in the International League if New York is able to buy the Akron franchise.

"I want to play in the National League to clear my name, above all things," he declared.

IS HE BLACK BALLED?

Herzog believes he has been black balled by the club owners as a result of the tale Rube Benton told last summer that Herzog had offered him $800 to throw a game against the Cubs in Chicago. Herzog denies it and claims Benton did it out of revenge for some trouble they had on the Cincinnati club.

Heydler says the league holds nothing against Herzog and that he was released from the Chicago Cubs because the management thought he could not play well enough for the $13,000 salary he had been getting. The Cub officials say the same thing.

HARRIS ASKS TO REJOIN INDIANS

CLEVELAND—Joe Harris, former Cleveland American League hard-hitting first baseman, wants to rejoin the Indians.

Writing to Catcher Steve O'Neill, Harris said:

"I want to play with the Indians again this year. See what you can do for me."

O'Neill referred the letter to James C. Dunn, president of the local club, who said that he was powerless to aid Harris in returning to organized baseball and that Joe would have to make his petition to Judge Landis and the new advisory board.

Harris held out for a larger salary a year ago and when Dunn declined to meet the demands he staked up with a Franklin, Pa. independent team, with whom he played last year.

MICHIGAN IS AFTER NEW ATHLETES

ANN ARBOR—After the loss of Carl Johnson, Baker, Beardsley and Cross, outstanding track stars last year, will be keenly felt this season, coaches at the University of Michigan are conducting daily practice in an effort to whip into shape a point winning team for 1934.

Calkins and Spurrier are being groomed to fill the places of Johnson and Beardsley in the hurdles. Stipe and other members of the football squad are showing promise of making up the loss of Baker in the weight events, while Westbrook and Stancher are said by coaches to be fit candidates for the place of Cross in the pole vault. Michigan is pinning its hope on Walker in the high jump.

MAJOR IN DASHES

Michigan expects to make its best showing in the dashes and quarter mile. Losch, Simmons and Harvey form the backbone of the sprinters and for the quarter mile Captain Butler, Wetsel, Joann and Wheeler are available. Michigan also expects to develop a good two-mile squad.

Michigan's track classic this year will be the meet with Cornell to be held here.

SLOW MAKING PLANS FOR TOURNEY

Plans are being rounded into shape for the staging here within a few weeks of a county basketball tournament under auspices of the Y. M. C. A., with Physical Director Maxwell in charge.

No date has yet been decided upon, pending the return of Coach Detrick, of Central, and Coach Young, of South, from Delaware. The two are members of a committee named by Maxwell to help him map out details.

It is likely that two divisions will be formed, one a high school, and the other independent.

PENN IS TO SEND TEAM TO ILLINI

URBANA, Ill.—The crack relay team of the University of Pennsylvania is expected to be one of the strongest contenders for honors here in the University of Illinois relay carnival here March 5.

Earl Eby, one of the fastest middle-distance men in the country, and winner of second place in the 800-meter run at the Olympic games last year, will be a member of the Quaker mile-relay team. Eby has also been entered in the special events. Bob Maxam, another Pennsylvania flyer, will be watched with interest. He was credited last year with a mark of 48.45 in the 440 yard dash.

AMES IS FAVORITE

Ames, with the same relay team, that won the four mile race in last year's relay meet, rules favorite in the long grind. The Hawkeye runners will also enter the 2-mile relay race, and, judging from their early performances, are expected to finish near the front.

Illinois has a great collection of milers that are capable of furnishing any team a hard race. In Wharton, Yates, McGinnis, Allman and Dunaherry, Coach Gill has some of the fastest long distance runners in the Western Conference. Yates who won the Conference last year, has had a hard time in keeping ahead of McGinnis and Wharton in the early practice tills.

MANY HIGH JUMPERS

The high jump is expected to bring out some spirited competition. Alberts, an Illinois jumper, who took the measure of Murphy of Notre Dame, holder of the national high jump championship, in a recent dual meet, clearing the bar at 6 feet, 3 1/2 inches, will meet Murphy again in the Relay Carnival and the event may bring forth a record performance. Osborne of Illinois, and Ivy of Earlham College, Ohio, who tied for the Conference high jump, will also help make the event interesting, as both have jumped over 6 feet, 2 inches.

LECTURE

"WHY MILLIONS NOW LIVING WILL NEVER DIE"

W. A. THRUTCHLEY OF BROOKLYN, N. Y.

Morris Arcade Hall, Feb. 27th, 2:30 P. M.

Jesus, quoting the Prophet Daniel said, "Then shall be great tribulations, such as has not since the beginning of the world to this time, no, nor ever shall be, and except those days should be shortened, there should no flesh be saved; but for the elects sake these days shall be shortened. Matthew 24: 21, 22.

We ask, why would the Lord carry through this time of trouble a large number of people sparing them from death in the time of trouble, unless he intended to minister unto them some particular blessing? Do you want to know what this blessing is?

Don't ask the D.D.s, because they either do not know or will evade the question. But come and hear one who can handle the subject based on the scriptures.

A cordial invitation extended to all, seats free, no collection. Auspices International Bible Students' Assn.

ARMY LOSES TO NAVY FIVE

ANNAPOLIS—Navy won the second annual basketball game from Army here today 45 to 29. The Middie team work was superior.

LEAGUE CARD IS CHANGED BY BOSS

CHICAGO—Several changes in the American League schedule which was released Feb. 12, were announced Saturday because the games in three Eastern cities of the circuit did not balance.

The three cities affected are Washington, Philadelphia and New York. The changes follow:

AT WASHINGTON—Philadelphia's second series has been reduced from five to four games, by the elimination of July 11.

Boston was originally scheduled on September 10 and 11. This has been changed to Sept. 9 and 10.

Philadelphia is at Washington on Sept. 11.

AT PHILADELPHIA—Detroit is scheduled into Philadelphia on its last trip Sept. 16 and Sept. 17 (two games). St. Louis takes Detroit's original dates in that city and is scheduled in Philadelphia on Sept. 19, 20, 21 and 22.

AT NEW YORK—Philadelphia is scheduled in New York on July 5, an open date in both the American and National League schedules.

St. Louis' second trip into New York is made a four game series, by including the date of July 26. Sept. 8 with Boston is eliminated.

Boston is scheduled into New York on Sept. 11, instead of Philadelphia. St. Louis finishes its final games in New York on Sept. 16 and 17. Detroit is scheduled Sept. 18, 20 and 21.

Sept. 22, originally scheduled with St. Louis, is eliminated.

BALL AGREEMENT IS COMPLETED

NEW YORK—Final work on the agreement between the major and minor leagues was completed Saturday night.

The last detail was merely routine work, getting the agreement ready for the printers.

John Heydler, president of the National League, who has had charge of the work, leaves today for Pinehurst, N. C., where he will spend three weeks on his annual vacation.

WATSON'S MINE RUN COAL IS THE KIND FOR FURNACES.

BOTH TEAMS WILL SCRAP FOR HONORS AGAIN ON MARCH 12

BY BILL CUNNINGHAM
(Lima News Staff Correspondent)

DELAWARE—At the close of the thirteenth annual high school basketball tournament, Mt. Vernon and Woodward Tech, won the two final games here Saturday. Mt. Vernon defeated Cleveland Lincoln, 30 to 15, while Woodward Tech trounced their home-town contenders, Scott Hill, score of 22 to 11.

These two winners return to Delaware March 12, when will meet the winners of the southern division which plays next Friday and Saturday.

BASKETBALL RESULTS

EVANSTON, Ill.—Purdue trimmed Northwestern at basketball here Saturday night 24 to 15.

MADISON, Wis.—Wisconsin University basketball team beat Chicago here Saturday night 25 to 19.

ANN ARBOR, Mich.—Michigan University basketball team beat Cleveland here Saturday night 24 to 18.

SEVEN ROOKIES LEAVE TODAY

NEW YORK—Seven Giant rookies, first year of McGraw's forces, will leave here Sunday for San Antonio, where they will go to work under Hughie Jennings, assistant manager of the club, who has been here several days. Manager McGraw will join the squad next week arriving directly from Cuba.

MANY GAMES CARDED BY CHI SOX

CHICAGO—The old Roman of baseball will not give up. In an effort to rebuild shattered Sox lineup, caused by suspension of eight of its regulars, as the result of alleged conspiracy to throw the 1913 world series, Charles Comiskey has mapped out a strenuous training campaign.

There will be few idle moments from the time the White Sox set foot on Texas soil until the close of the training period.

Practice contests going nine innings will be played every day at Waukegan, where the regulars led by Manager Gleason and the Goofs, headed by John Collins, veteran outfielder.

Fourteen contests have been booked with Texas clubs.

The Sox meet but one major league team on the training jaunt—the Cincinnati Reds, implicated in the 1919 conspiracy—who they are booked to play at Fort Worth.

NOTIONS—FIRST FLOOR—BLUM'S.

CRESCENTS TO PLAY GROVE THURSDAY

Again the Lima Crescents and the Columbus Grove Maroons will hook horns when the team from the neighboring city journeys here Thursday. The game will be played on the St. Rosa auditorium floor.

Earlier this season the Maroons walloped the Lima clan when the locals played them on their floor. At that time the manager of the Crescents stated that his team was not in shape for the fray, as they had had but little practice up to that time.

USE REGULAR LINE-UP

The Crescents will use their regular line-up, consisting of Furlong, T. Lewis or H. Lewis and Vanwyck, forwards, Bob Lewis, center, and either Waltz, Gross, Judy, Ridenhour or Clark, guards.

Bob Lewis at present is ill, but is expected to be in shape by Thursday night. Tuesday night the Crescents play at Vaughnsville. With them they will take the Garford girls to play the Vaughnsville girls.

RESULTS OF GAM PLAYED SATURDAY

Following are the results games played Saturday in northern division of the high school basketball tournament at Delaware:

Toledo Scott 15; Mansfield Toledo Woodward 17; Norwalk 11; Cleveland Lincoln 21; Berea Mount Vernon 25; Ada 6; Mansfield 31; Fostoria 12; Toledo Scott 31; Berlin 10; Norwalk 23; Canton McK 16; Toledo Woodward 23; Ash South 12; Berea 18; Ashley 10; Cleveland Lincoln 23; rain 8.

ing of the second half, Scott won the ball down to their goal and successful in evening the score. It was immediately after this the Woodward Tech players spun and clearly vanquished their opponents. They worked the ball to the floor continuously for basket while the Scott players were unable to step along at the pace being by their opposing home town boys.

BUSINESS IS GOOD SERVICE DID IT!

Starting into business at a time when the so-called business depression was at its height, our patronage has grown by leaps and bounds, proving beyond doubt that quality and price with service is what counts with the buying public.

One of our first problems was to get a tire that would be universally acceptable to the autoist. One that would stand the wear and tear of hard driving and that was backed by an old reliable manufacturer. We chose the oldest rubber company in existence; we chose the best tires in the world today: The Goodrich Rubber company manufacturing Goodrich fabrics and Silvertown cords. We chose a tire also with an extremely long mileage guarantee backed by a factory of proven worth, integrity and financial standing: India fabrics, guaranteed 8,000 miles; India cords, guaranteed 12,000 miles; manufactured by the India Tire & Rubber company of Akron.

In choosing a battery, we secured the distributing agency for the best storage battery made: The Philadelphia Diamond Grid, guaranteed for two years. It will give longer service and at no greater cost than any other battery.

We have followed out the policy: "The best is none too good for our patrons," in selecting all of our immense stock of accessories.

JAP COLLEGE SENDS TEAM TO U.S.

Japanese baseball players, the middle west, are sending their first game to the University of Chicago on May 9. The team represents the University of Japan and is under the direction of Prof. H. Abe who is known as the father of baseball in Japan. The Japanese team is scheduled to leave the Orient about the middle of March, play a month in Honolulu, and then a number of games on the coast to cross to the middle west, and then push to the Atlantic coast for the farthest leg of the trip ever taken by a Japanese college baseball team.

ARRANGE SCHEDULE

The program of games in this section has been arranged by Prof. H. Abe, who is the coach of the University of Chicago who led the team into Japan last spring, winning 8 and tying 2 games out of 10.

Prof. H. Abe previously organized and coached the Waseda baseball team in Japan from 1904 to 1910, when the game was in its infancy in the Far East. The Middle West schedule, as announced, is as follows:

Mar. 14th—Chicago at Chicago
Mar. 15th—Northwestern at Chicago
Mar. 16th—Purdue at Lafayette
Mar. 17th—Butler at Bloomington
Mar. 18th—Chicago at Chicago
Mar. 19th—Illinois at Champaign

INTRADE EAST

Completing this schedule the Waseda team will go East to play against tentatively arranged games with the eastern colleges. It plans to return for a third game with Chicago on June 1. The two succeeding games will be devoted to games with Michigan and Ohio, the two contenders for the national championship.

Plans for entertainment of the Japanese team while in Chicago are being negotiated by Prof. H. Abe and the Japanese consul, Kiyoshi A. Kiyoshi, a former Waseda student. A number of functions will be arranged by the University in honor of the Japs.

ST. ROSE GRADES HAVE TEAMS

The St. Rose seventh grade basketball team went down to defeat Saturday in a game against the St. Rose sixth grade team in their own gymnasium. Score was 9 to 7.

Line-ups:

Seventh Grade: Sweeney, F. Edwards, O'Connor, F. Hanley, Miller, C. McGroovy, Murphy, G. Madigan, Brennan, G. Cook. Substitutes—Hanley for Madigan; Brown for Cook.

NEW TEAM TO MAKE BOW MONDAY

The C. O. Foresters basketball quintet will play the Wapak Bearcats at the St. Rose auditorium gymnasium Monday night, in what is expected to be a good, scrappy, and fast game.

Not much has been heard of the Foresters here this season, due in most part to their schedule calling for all of their games to be played on foreign floors.

HAVE FAST CREW

The Bearcat aggregation consists of the select basketball players of Wapakoneta, and in recent games they have been piling up high scores against their opponents.

A. T. Falk, manager of the Foresters, said Saturday night that their line-up consists of himself and Goodrich, forwards; J. Cashman, center; and Tobin and Quillin, guards.

TRINITY HAS POOR LUCK

The First Christians maintained their position of first place in the Y. M. C. A. church basketball league, Saturday night, when they dreadfully walloped the Trinity five by a score of 56 to 20.

From the whistle, the Christians played a fast game and paralyzed attempts of the Methodists to pass the ball and throw for the basket.

In a close game, the South Side Church of Christ defeated the Reformed church team, 22 to 18.

The Baptists trounced the United Brethren five, 42 to 20.

A REGULAR HE-MAN BATTERY SERVICE

THERE once was a motorist who had become so used to the average kind of service and treatment that he just laughed when his friends told him to come to us.

But a couple of days afterward he got in trouble. Stood right up on the old starter and nary a whirl did he get.

So he called us up, saying, "I've had trouble with this d— battery for the last two months; guess there's nothing to it but a new one; how much will it cost?"

But right there we broke in, "Nothing doing! Wait till we see what the trouble is. You may not need a new battery." And sure enough, he didn't. Now we almost had to fight with that fellow to keep from selling him a new battery. But it's not a part of our policy to sell a man a battery when his present one can be made to last several months by a reasonable repair.

The other day this same motorist was telling some friends "where you can get a regular he-man battery service." The address was ours.

Some day when that motorist's battery is worn out we're going to sell him a Philadelphia Diamond Grid Battery, guaranteed two years, and permanently put an end to his battery worries.

WEDDING OF POPULAR COUPLE

Miss Lucille Knisely Becomes the Bride of Floyd M. Reub of Kingston

Charming Young Lady of Lima Goes to Future Home Near Chillicothe

SATURDAY morning at 10 o'clock a pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. Mortimer Williams, 70 North-st., when Rev. Walter D. Cole read the service uniting in marriage their charming and attractive daughter Miss Lucille Knisely and Floyd M. Reub, of Kingston, Ohio, Mrs. Ralph Woods, Riva, college room-mate of the bride, sang sweetly, "At Dawning," Mrs. Carl Crites, sister of the bride, at the piano softly accompanying her. The rooms were made most attractive with palms and a profusion of pink roses, an altar being formed of palms and roses. The bride was lovely in a mid-night blue tulle dress trimmed in ecru lace and her corsage was composed of pink buds and lilies of the valley.

Following the ceremony the guests repaired to the dining room where an elaborate wedding breakfast was served. The room was artistically decorated in pink and white, a large basket of pink roses centering the table, and large candles tied with white tulle furnished a soft, mellow light. Three little maids, Misses Imogene Baur, Elizabeth Green and Frances Christen, garbed in dainty white dresses, served. The bride was the recipient of many beautiful gifts.

Out of town guests were Mrs. P. J. McCullough, Lancaster, sister of the groom; Frank Jamison, Cincinnati, and Miss Jeannette Knisely, a student at Ohio Wesleyan university.

Mr. and Mrs. Reub motored to Columbus Saturday morning where they will remain for several days. They will then leave for their future home near Chillicothe where Mr. Reub will be engaged in business. The bride's going away costume was a navy blue tulle dress with a fur coat. Her hair was black and was very effectively trimmed in blue.

The bride is a graduate of Lima Central high school. She also graduated from Ohio Wesleyan in 1919, receiving the Phi Beta Kappa honor.

For the past year and a half she was engaged as one of the gymnasium instructors at the Central high school. Mrs. Reub will be greatly missed by her many friends in this city as she is one of Lima's most popular young girls.

Mr. Reub graduated from Ohio Wesleyan university where romance which culminated in marriage began. He is a member of the Chi Phi fraternity. During his college career he specialized in agriculture, which he now expects to pursue extensively.

The L. D. C. club met with Mrs. Frank Dabell Thursday and enjoyed that day with her, a delicious covered dish dinner being served at noon and the afternoon being occupied in needlework.

Members present were Mesdames Beech, Moorman, Farrell, Gibson, DeWalt, Wolf, Ferguson, Stanyer, Whitaker, East, Miss Nellie Albrecht and Miss Violet Stanyer.

Guests were Miss Miller and Mrs. Walter Augsburg.

In compliment to Miss Katherine Gramm and Ralph Shrider, Miss Margery Warfield invited a few friends to her home on W. Wayne-st. Friday for an evening of bridge. At the conclusion of the evening the guests served a dainty lunch.

Guests were Miss Katherine Gramm and Miss Dorothy Collins, Willard Gramm, Harry Strasburg, Ralph Shrider, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Breese.

Mrs. H. F. Spyer and daughter Beatrice returned to this city Saturday after residing in Nowata, Oklahoma, for a number of months. They will make their home here for the present.

MISS GRAMM, A BRIDE-TO-BE

Miss Katherine Gramm, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Gramm, whose marriage to Ralph Shrider, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Shrider, will be solemnized at the home of her parents, S. Cole-st., Wednesday at high noon. The Rev. Walter D. Cole will read the nuptials and about 100 invitations have been issued for the ceremony.

Mrs. Frank Kommink extended the hospitality of her beautiful home to the members of the Missionary society of the Market-st. Presbyterian church Wednesday for their last regular meeting. The program arranged for the Federated Missions and used at the "Day of prayer" series was in charge of Mrs. W. B. McClaren and given as follows: "Remarks and Responsive Reading," Mrs. McClaren; "The Church," Mrs. J. E. Summers; "Home and Foreign Missions," Mrs. Louis McDonald; "Young Leaders," Mrs. Samuel Huecker. Mrs. McDonald introduced Miss Hazel Bartlett, the new community worker on the south side. Miss Bartlett in a very interesting manner gave an outline of her work and the great need in her sphere which inspired the society to take up an offering on behalf of the worthy cause.

An election of officers followed with Mrs. R. T. Gregg re-elected president; Mrs. W. A. Campbell re-elected vice-president; Mrs. Samuel Huecker, second vice-president; Mrs. J. E. Summers, secretary to succeed Mrs. O. B. Selfridge, Miss Frances Metzger treasurer to succeed Mrs. Harry Robinson; Mrs. W. B. McClaren, secretary of literature to succeed Mrs. Louise McDonald; Mrs. J. E. Dexter re-elected pianist. A social hour was enjoyed and Mrs. B. F. Thomas and committee served refreshments.

Many of the women's clubs will not hold their regular meetings next week because they will be in attendance at a series of addresses to be given by the noted writer and lecturer Dr. Ewing L. House who will speak every afternoon at 8 o'clock and every evening at 8 o'clock during the week at the Market-st. Presbyterian church. Dr. House is a Harvard graduate and also graduated from Boston university.

As an informal courtesy, to Mrs. Minnie D. Curless, special art teacher at South high school, the faculty of that school entertained with a pleasant gathering at the school Friday. The evening was enjoyed socially and Mrs. Curless was presented a very dainty gift. Easter Sunday, Mrs. Curless will come the bride of E. L. Haines, Chicago.

Misses Marguerite and Cora Krein, W. North-st. are the guests of friends in Defiance over the weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Williams, S. Cole-st. entertained at dinner Thursday evening honoring Mr. Sawinsky, New York.

A group of young people met at the home of Mrs. A. H. Miller, Collins-ave., Wednesday evening to organize a Standard Bearer society for Epworth M. E. church. Election of officers was held with the following results: Miss Reta Reed, president; Miss Susanna Kahler, vice-president; Miss Florence Sylph, secretary and Miss Mary Clark, treasurer. Thirty names were enrolled on the new record and Mrs. O. Dickinson was made supervisor and Mrs. A. H. Miller her assistant. Later an old-fashioned taggy pull was enjoyed. Guests for the evening were Mrs. Harriet Arkel and Mrs. C. Zurnahly.

Mrs. Roush, table-a-lits was hostess to the members of the Social Club Thursday at a delightful Washington birthday party. Members responded a roll call with quotations from Washington and each one was presented with a clever Washington bonnet made by the hostess. A social hour was enjoyed following the business session and a delightful two course luncheon was served by Miss Florence Roush and Miss Dorothy Allen, garbed in pretty costumes significant of the occasion.

The club will meet in a fortnight with Mrs. J. Kennedy.

Woman's Foreign Missionary society of Trinity M. E. church will meet in the church parlors Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Hostesses for the day will be Mrs. C. D. Keil, Mrs. H. E. ## MISS KNISELY BECOMES BRIDE

Mrs. Floyd M. Reub, before her marriage Saturday morning. Miss Lucille Knisely, was the bride in a simple but beautiful ceremony celebrated at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. Mortimer Williams, W. North-st. Mr. and Mrs. Reub will reside near Chillicothe, where Mr. Reub will pursue intensive agriculture.

Again Thursday evening an interested group of people gathered to hear the gifted art collector Mrs. Sawitzky speak on the various pictures in the exhibition that has been given gratuitously to Lima people all during the past week in the Chamber of Commerce auditorium.

Of the splendid examples of J. Francis Murphy's painting he said that while Murphy has been a poor man he had never allowed a poor picture of his to be sold, so today there were no bad Murphy pictures on the market and that he was considered America's greatest landscape painter since Inness.

Owing to the frequent requests that the present exhibition remain for a longer period, plans are being made to have it continue next week so that people from nearby towns may attend.

Miss Katherine Graff, N. McDonald-st. was hostess to a few friends Wednesday. The rooms were prettily decorated thruout with Washington birthday suggestions. The afternoon was enjoyed in games and contests in which Miss Mary June Harron and Robert Jenkins were successful. At 4 o'clock a delicious luncheon was served.

Present were Mesdames Rosemary Hullinger, Mary June Hannon, Oleg Goes, Mary Jane Smith, Eleanor Brennan, June Fitzpatrick, Genevieve Metzger, Robert Jenkins, Clifford Graff and the hostess.

REFLECTION OF SOCIAL AFFAIRS

Resume of Delightful Events of the Past Week in Society Circles

Pre-Nuptial Affairs for Lima Brides-to-be — Many Are Entertained

NATIONAL holidays are always feast days and advantage is usually taken of such days by those who enjoy entertainment. Tuesday, the birthday of our great revolutionary hero and statesman was a pre-eminent example of this custom. Several entertainments were held Tuesday, while many others were enjoyed thruout the week in celebration of this event.

Little gatherings complimenting house guests or informal affairs for those who were expecting to leave the city to reside elsewhere, were numerous. Several lovely pre-nuptial affairs were given in honor of two of Lima's fair daughters, Miss Lucille Knisely and Miss Katherine Gramm.

Tuesday Mrs. Willard Price delightfully entertained a group of friends for the pleasure of Mrs. Eugene Kennedy, Muncie, Ind.

Complimenting her house guests, Mrs. H. C. Shepherd, Detroit, Mrs. Dave Rosenheim charmingly entertained a few friends at 1 o'clock luncheon at her home on S. State-st. Tuesday.

In compliment to little Alice Mary Cable, charming daughter of Congregationalist and Mrs. John L. Cable, Glenna Marie Hobart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Hobart pleasantly entertained a number of little friends at the Hobart home Tuesday. Wednesday, Mary Leete delightfully entertained a number of guests in Alice Mary's honor.

As an informal courtesy to Miss Coy Inne Croy who left Saturday with her mother Mrs. Ronda Zellits Croy, for Washington D. C., Miss Blanche Rebeck, Andrews gave a very lovely little dinner party Monday evening at her parents' home on W. High-st. Monday evening Miss Dorothea Kennedy charmingly entertained in Miss Corinne's honor. For her pleasure Miss Bernice Lindemuth arranged a theatre party Tuesday while Miss Inne Bernstein was hostess to a very attractive party at the Loudon tea rooms Wednesday. Thursday evening Miss Nell Purcell had as guests the members of the J. C. club in Miss Corinne's honor.

Complimenting Miss Lucille Knisely whose marriage to Floyd M. Reub, Kingston was solemnized Saturday, Mrs. Carl Crites was hostess to a few guests at bridge Tuesday evening. Thursday Mrs. M. D. Owen entertained at her home on W. Elm-st. for the pleasure of Miss Katherine Gramm and Miss Knisely.

Tuesday evening Mrs. Charles Holman and Miss Mary Shrider were hostesses to a group of friends at the Holman home for the pleasure of Miss Gramm. Wednesday, Mrs. Beecher Moke entertained with a prettily appointed 1 o'clock luncheon at her home for Miss Gramm's pleasure. Friday evening in compliment to Miss Gramm and Ralph Shrider Miss Margery Warfield invited several couples for cards at her home on W. Wayne-st.

Mrs. Ira Busiek, W. High-st. will entertain the members of the Progressive Euchre club Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. F. H. Moore, Toledo, is the house-guest of Mrs. G. R. Grove, W. Market-st.

PROF. SCHUSTER, WIZARD OF THE ACCORDION, AN ADDED ATTRACTION AT THE LYRIC STARTING TODAY

No question as to whether or not you're going to the Lyric theater today—Can hardly stay away. Wonderful program. First comes "A Man in a Million"; then Harold Lloyd in "Ask Father"; then as an extra added attraction, Prof. Schuster, the "Wizard of the Accordion," three big cards all in one program. Prof. Schuster has been heard in Lima before. If you doubt his ability to astound and entertain, just ask someone who has heard him. He makes his instrument more than talk. Please come early and avoid standing.

An Intensely Dramatic Page From Real Life. If Your Heart Is In Your Boots This Picture Will Find It.

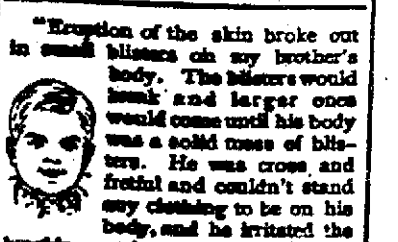

One of the most charming productions the Lyric has ever offered its patrons. Harold Lloyd as an added attraction in "Ask Father".

The man, woman or child who falls to find his way to the Lyric theater today is going to have something to regret when he learns about the program there. It is SOME program, perhaps one of the most varied and best ever offered to Lima people.

George Beban is there in "One Man in a Million", a production which he wrote, directed and which he stars in, and you'll not be disappointed in seeing this six reels of life as he visioned it. It's a page from real life, moulded from everyday things, but so wonderfully done that you are amazed at the result. Then there is Harold Lloyd! Why speak of him when everybody knows that there is no funnier man on the screen today than he. He comes today in his most humorous skit yet, "Ask Father" and if you can vision him asking the "old man" for the hand of a beautiful daughter, you have exactly what is in store for you. Don't come with a broken rib, or mumps, or appendicitis, for if you do they'll haul you home in an ambulance.

Miss Norva Sidwell Tells How Cuticura Healed Her Brother

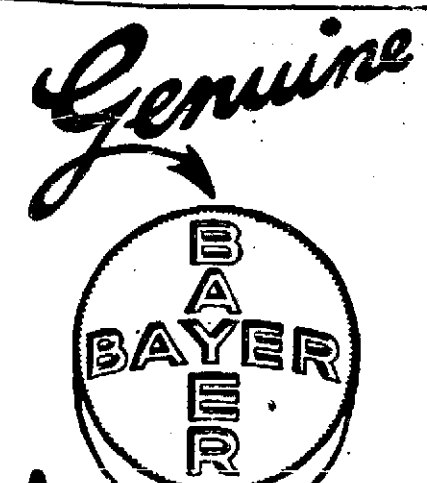

"Eruption of the skin broke out in small blisters on my brother's body. The blisters would break and larger ones would come until his body was a solid mass of blisters. He was cross and fretful and couldn't stand any clothing to be on his body, and he irritated the blisters on by rubbing it."

"This trouble continued for months and we used Cuticura Soap and Ointment with good results. When we had used two boxes of Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura Ointment he was healed." (Signed) Miss Norva Sidwell, R. F. D. 3, Matamoras, Kansas.

Once clear, keep your skin clear by using Cuticura Soap and Ointment for every-day toilet purposes and Cuticura Talcum to powder and perfume. Nothing better.

Suffering from Itchy Skin, Eruptions, Eczema, and other skin troubles, use Cuticura Soap and Ointment. It will cure you. Cuticura Soap is made by the Cuticura Company, New York, N. Y.

Aspirin

You must say "Bayer"

Warning! Unless you see the name "Bayer" on tablets, you are not getting genuine Aspirin prescribed by physicians for 21 years and proved safe by millions. Accept only an "unbroken package" of "Bayer Tablets of Aspirin," which contains proper directions for Colds, Headache, Pain, Toothache, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Neuritis, Lumbago.

Ready six boxes of 12 tablets each but a few cents—Larger packages. Beware of the trade mark of Bayer Manufacturers of Monoclonal and other products.

Owing to the deserved popularity of Mrs. Rhea Watson, who several of her friends in planning to open their homes for a farewell evening of music in her honor finally decided that the home of Mrs. Peter Hulsken, State-st., was the ideal place for the event which was held Monday evening, Mrs. Hulsken, Mrs. C. S. Frederick Gooding and Mrs. C. S. Baxter assisting in various ways to make the affair a success. Mrs. Hulsken serving a dainty luncheon during the evening.

The list of guests was confined to about 50 women friends who had been so fortunate in being included in the various lovely programs given informally at Mrs. Cable's home. Monday evenings during the past months and also a few fortunate appreciative listeners who had helped make these evenings successful.

The guest of honor was overwhelmed with the amount of the real merriment of the gathering, namely the presentation of a testimonial to her in the form of a beautiful Chinese tea set inlaid with silver and a Sheffield Silver Service, both of which will greatly enhance the hospitality of Mrs. Cable's home. Mrs. Hulsken making the presentation speech in a few timely words telling of how the grateful friends had each contributed to the gift.

Friday evening Mrs. Earl Rohn opened her cozy home at W. Elm-st. to the following girls: Misses G. Parker, Mary Harbison, Ida Puna, Mary Marshall, Della Cox, Jane Swan, Leona Curtis, Crystal Bages, Elizabeth Lamb, Vera and Helen Brees, Zula Bushinger, Flora Shaw, Lois Sutton, Doris Newell, Marion Johnston, Miss Houdie Camp and Miss Naomi Stenger were guests.

Miss Ruth Mount assisted Mrs. Rohn in entertaining the girls. Miss Mount and Mr. Rohn are the girls' Sunday school teachers. During that joint meetings of the two Sunday school classes were most profitable. The girls organized with that in view and planned for future good times and helpful work for Market-st. Presbyterian church. Their present work is making baby clothes and fit out a bed for the little mothers of Mizpah Center to enjoy while learning to help care for their own little brothers and sisters.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith, Rowena-apt., W. Spring-st., have returned from a fortnight stay in New York state, where Mrs. Myra Chesterton Smith has been filling engagements as a reader of plays.

An informal program gave great pleasure to every one. Mrs. H. B. Adam paid a happy tribute to the honor guest whom she had helped materially along her musical journey since childhood. She then followed with one of her talks along musical lines. Mrs. Cable gave several wonderful numbers. Mrs. J. W. Roby sang, Mrs. Bessie Seymour spoke feelingly of Mrs. Cable's worth. Mrs. Irene Harritt Kluge sang one lovely number. Mrs. J. K. Bannister gave a delightful musical reading accompanied by Mrs. Harry McDonald. Mrs. Fred Gooding sang two charming baby songs to which Mrs. Cable had written the accompaniment. Then Mrs. Helen Burton Holmes in a quaint Chinese costume told of how "Wagner had written some songs for voices that were not" and that Mrs. Cable was like him in writing music for a group of songs from "The Lute of Jade" by Cranmer Byrnes and dedicated them to her, which she sang to every one's delight.

Mrs. Theodore Scheide, W. Spring-st., entertained at dinner Thursday complimenting Mrs. Dalrimple and Mrs. Warden, Wapelon-st.; and Mrs. A. Hausenstein and Mrs. Henry Smith, Bluffton.

Berean Sunday School class will hold its March meeting Tuesday with Mrs. H. K. Simon, 625 Woodward-ave. All members requested to be present.

Congressman-elect, Mrs. John L. Cable and children, Mary and David, Lakewood-ave, will leave Monday for Washington, D. C.

HER OWN CAREER

By PHYLLIS PHILLIPS

GWENDA'S CODE

"Oh," shrugged Fern impatiently, "I don't really see that being made a wife by some man has so much to do with the question of love. Look at the hundreds of men who marry their housekeepers every day, and quite frankly acknowledge that they do not marry for love, but for convenience. And all sorts of other cases, too, which long ago helped to prove to me that marriage, as an institution, has been steadily abused for years. Look about at some of the married couples that even you and I know. Look into their lives. You know as well as I do what they are. Think of Lucy married legally to that awful brute of a man, who tells her that he runs about with—other women whenever he feels like it! Think of a poor Dorothy and Gail and half a dozen others that we know right here in our own district who are dimly unhappy, yet married. Then remember your own mother. She has almost hated your dad since she was married to him. Almost without knowing it herself, too. That's the tragedy. What have you to say to all this?"

"I'm too inexperienced to say much, I know, Fern, but I do still have my own feelings on this question, and some day, when I am old-

SELF-CONSCIOUSNESS NOT DESIRABLE TRAIT

By SUSIE SMART

Dear Miss Smart: I am not a very unhappy girl. I am not popular and I don't seem to be able to make friends. I think I know the reason why, I regret to admit, but I am very self-conscious. I have tried and tried to overcome it but I don't seem to be able to do so. Could you tell me what to do, because I think if I could overcome this trait I could make more friends.

ANSWERS

SELF-CONSCIOUSNESS is indeed a most undesirable trait. It is impossible to be at peace with oneself when in this state. Those who are inclined to be self-conscious usually spend too much time thinking about themselves. Thinking about how they look or what people are saying about them. They are also usually afraid to speak or to act for fear of making a mistake or imagining a slight when none is meant.

The best cure for self-consciousness is to try to gain complete mastery over oneself and resolve that other things more important shall occupy ones mind. Become more thoughtful of others. Watch what others are doing and saying. When absorbed in other people one naturally forgets self.

Do not be alarmed because you are not popular. Everyone cannot be popular, but we can all strive to cultivate those traits for which we know people will admire and like us. To be popular is not so much to be desired as to have just a few valued and worth-while friends.

Dear Miss Smart: Please give me the following ages and addresses: (a) Harold Lloyd, (b) Viola Dana, (c) May Allison, (d) William Durcan.

THEODORA

You may receive this information from Mr. Herr, in the revenue office on the second floor of the post office building.

Dear Miss Smart: (1) What is the difference between (a) following pantaloons, knickerbockers, petticoaters, petticoaters? (2) Is it proper for a girl to keep a boy's love after he has asked her for it? What would you think of the girl who would do that?

JACK AND DUTCH

(1) Consult a dictionary. (2) Frankly I think a boy has a great deal to nerve to ask a girl to return a picture after he has given it to her. At the same time if he asks that his picture be returned, the girl has very little pride and self-respect to even have any desire to keep his picture or anything else belonging to him.

Dear Miss Smart: (1) When learning to dance, should one think about what you are doing or anything except that? (2) How may one become a good dancer?

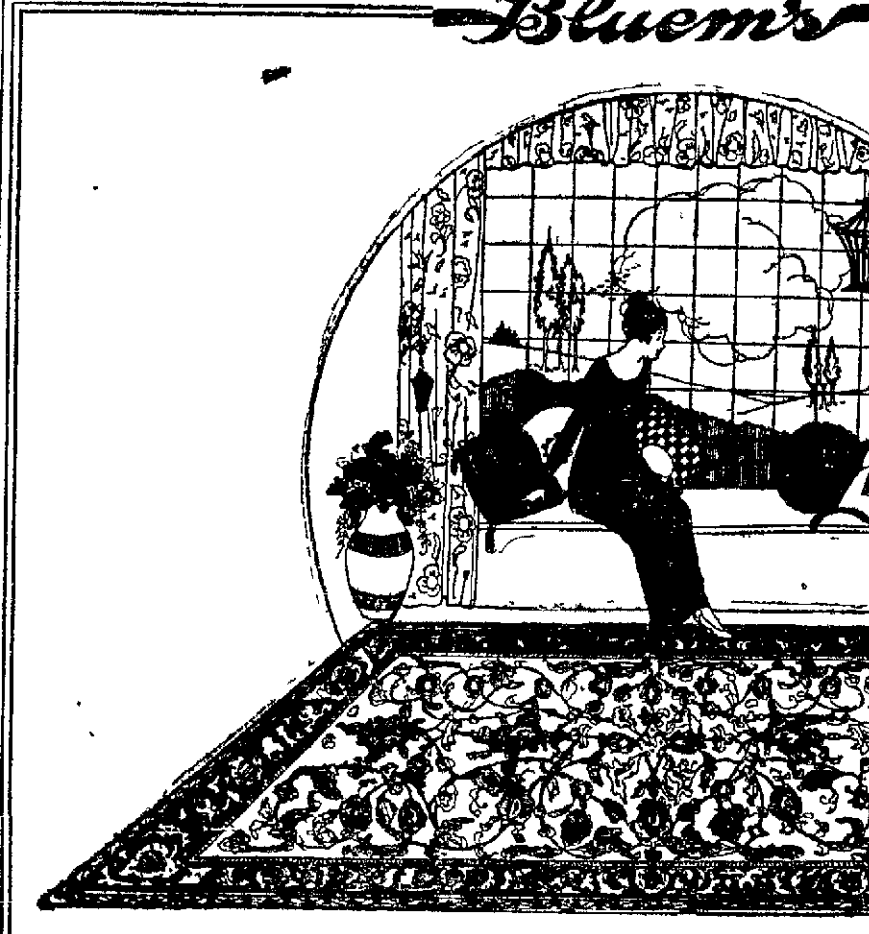

ANNA

(1) Of course it is necessary to keep one's mind on the fact that they are dancing, but as in many things, if persons are too conscious of themselves, they usually appear somewhat awkward and embarrassed. Just listen at the music and forget you have feet. (2) Practice.

Dear Miss Smart: (1) I am 15 years old and have been going with a certain 16 year old boy for some time. Lately he became fresh and I quit him. He is a nice boy, but I don't care for him any more. (2) Please give me the ages and addresses of the following: (a) William Durcan, (b) Babe Daniels, (c) Max Allison, (d) Norma Talmadge, (e) Constance Talmadge, (f) Maguerite Clark, (g) Mary Miles Minter, (h) George Walsh, (i) one and (j) Katherine Lee. What has become of Valeria Suratt? (4) Has Mary Pickford any children?

A. B. C.

(1) Yes, you probably did the best thing if your boy friend was not discreet in his actions. However, don't you really think that you are just a little young to be going with the boys? Forget about them for a while and you will find

Wednesday evening Lincoln Court No. 23, Tribe of Ben Hur, entertained a large audience with a six act vaudeville entertainment. The act consisted of musical numbers, readings and several stunts.

Those who were included in the evening's program were Fred Barrington, Orval Brockmaster, Walter Harrington, Paul Rose, Arthien Knoch, Albert Shumate, Foster Bo-Koch, Ben Baumgardner, Misses Orpha Freeman, Grace Ross, Ruth McPherson, Nellie Wright Shug, Florence Priest, Zelma Coffman, Lottie Kurtz, Odette Craig, Dorothy Day, Laura Baumgardner, Margaret Burke, Pauline Baumgardner, Clara Morrison and Majorie Bowell.

About 200 were in attendance at an enjoyable Washington Birthday party given by Progress Council No. 2468, S. B. A. Thursday evening in Old Fellows' hall. The affair served a dual purpose, in that it was the 25th anniversary of the organization. Many were dressed in pretty costumes, significant of the occasion. Mr. Doffett, president, was garbed as George Washington while Mrs. C. Jernigan represented Martha Washington. An entertaining program was one of the main features. The first number was a recitation by Mrs. Helen Brown. Misses Lalia and Frances Rook followed with a dialogue. Delightful music was furnished by the women's orchestra and a playlet was presented by the committee in charge. A recitation was given by Jack Fry.

Mercy Circle of King's Daughter's will hold an all day meeting at the home of Mrs. E. H. Palmer, 455 S. Franklin-st., Wednesday. Mrs. C. C. Sullivan and Mrs. Nelson Shook will act as assistant hostesses.

Mrs. F. J. Sawmiller, Elida, entertained a few guests Thursday evening at her home to announce the engagement of her sister, Miss Thelma Hermit to Carroll D. Wright, Center-st. At 6 o'clock an elaborate dinner was served and each of the guests was presented with a heart shaped favor in pink and white which revealed the secret. Miss Hermit was presented with a lovely casserole dish.

Guests were: Misses Mary Curry, Blanche Wisterman, Margaret Fisher, Rose Dimond and the honor guest.

A movie demonstrating the life of the Japanese girl has been arranged for the Twilight Hour at the Y. W. C. A. Sunday afternoon. The picture is in charge of Industrial Secretary Biddle at the Y. M. C. A. and will be shown between 4:15 and 5 o'clock. Miss Mary Garford, physical director at the Y. W. C. A., will have charge of the remainder of the program.

A pretty wedding took place Friday evening at 7:00 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Aurea, Euclid-ave., when their daughter, Miss Nell, was united in marriage to J. M. McKett with Rev. Baker officiating.

The bride was lovely in a pink satin dress and she wore a corsage composed of roses, sweet-peas and violets. Miss Helen Graham as maid of honor was gowned in a pretty yellow satin dress and her corsage was of pink roses and sweet peas. The bride groom was attended by Walter Aurea, Cleveland, brother of the bride. Mrs. John Tohy played most delightfully the wedding music.

Immediately following the ceremony the guests were invited into the dining room where an elaborate table was served. Centering the table was a wedding cake and at either side was a beautiful basket of pink tulips and white hyacinths. Ferns and other flowers were effectively used thruout the room and pink and white tulle furnished illumination thruout the dinner hour.

Mr. and Mrs. McKett will reside at the home of the bride's parents for the present.

"The True Blues," an organized class of Market-st Presbyterian Sunday School, held their monthly meeting at the home of the teacher, Mrs. W. B. McClaren, S. Baxter-st., Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock. The following officers were chosen: Miss Mary Kerr, president; Miss Meredith Shifferly, Miss Mary Beery, secretary; Miss Elizabeth Douglass, treasurer, and Miss Hazel Van Gunter, cheer leader. The motto adopted was a splendid one, "Praise loudly, blame softly." After the serving of a two course luncheon by the hostess the class adjourned to attend the lecture at the high school auditorium.

Members are Misses Mary Beery, Mary Kerr, Meredith Shifferly, Juanita Barth, Lida Buchanan, Frances Lou Cunningham, Elizabeth Douglas, Bertha Edman, Phyllis Embury, Martha Altschul, Madeline Kellogg, Helen Wildoner, Charlotte Sherwood, Martha Laughlin, Virginia Mosher, Katherine Moulton, Bernadine Shemaker, Hazel Van Gunter and Margaret Wallace.

Sunday morning at 8 o'clock at the home of Rev. O. E. Smith, Franklin-ave, the marriage of Miss Thelma Flesch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Hermit, Elida, to Carroll D. Wright took place with Rev. J. Sawmiller, sister and brother-in-law of the bride, attended the couple. Immediately following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Wright left for Ft. Wayne to be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. Wright over Sunday. They will then return to Elida where they will remain until March 6 before departing for their future home in Denver, Colorado.

Miss Emma and Charles Strayer, Degraht, are the guests of their sister, Mrs. R. O. Bigley, W. Market-st. Mr. Strayer will remain over the week-end but Miss Strayer will continue her visit.

Keemar club will meet with Mrs. T. G. Myers, 1136 Richle-ave, Wednesday afternoon.

Koneta circle will meet with Mrs. Karl Reuz N. Main-st., Tuesday.

Friday evening Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Holmes, Lakewood-ave., opened their charming home to about 100 friends as farewell honor to their neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. John Cable.

The home was fragrant with flowers of spring time and the west end drawing room converted into a miniature stage whereon bits of Grand Opera were given with a nicety of detail most surprising.

The first was from Madame Butterfly with Mrs. Fred Gooding and Mrs. John Carnes in charming oriental robes with their hair exquisitely adorned. In the scene baby trouble was adorably taken by little Catherine Ann Gooding. Never have these two popular singers scored a greater success for they were at their very best.

Mrs. Clarence Klingler as Marguerite in the garden scene from Faust was most picturesque with her quaint costume most becoming to her style of beauty. Her voice was most particularly lovely when she sang to the caged bird who as if in response to her love song awakened and sang to her. The orchestra composed of Mrs. Cable, Mr. Holmes, Mr. Schultz played delightfully for all the operas.

In the twinkling of the eye the garden took an added beauty and became a bower with a windowed balcony from which Juliet impersonated by Mrs. B. H. Holmes poured forth her longings in answer to passionate pleadings of Romeo in the person of Mr. Flickinger. Bluffton College who looked the part in his handsome doublet and hose with all necessary accessories. Recently their operatic excerpts were given before the Woman's Music club and so much enjoyed that a second hearing was a privilege indeed for if anything they were better done, particularly the last one for Mrs. Holmes' voice while not a strong one, seemed just the voice for Shakespeare's heroine and her acting was most dramatic with Mr. Flickinger making a splendid support.

Following this Ralph Mackenzie gave three delightful numbers from "Rigoletto" as sung by the greatest artists of our times, the Victrola being the medium thru which the music reached his hearers. His own word pictures helping to transport everyone to the Ducal palace where the scenes took place. One delightful feature of the singing or a group of songs by one of the Bluffton college faculty, Prof. Lehman. One tuneful song being a southern song, the first American song written in America. Then an awakening song was "The Gypsy," the words written by Mr. Cable to whom the words were written. This Mr. Lehman sang with delightful abandon and dash, showing it would be a song that will probably become a favorite for concert singers.

Mrs. Donald Mehafter gave a reading which was surprising to all for it was an unusual fairy tale on the theme of "The Swan's Song" written by Mrs. Clarence Klingler.

The closing surprise to many was hearing one of Lima's favorite sons, Ned Seymour, who sang and played a most interesting French song for he was both composer and song writer giving most promise of things to come.

An appetizing little lunch followed amidst impromptu music. At midnight the guests departed bidding the honor guests a reluctant farewell for they will be greatly missed in this city.

Mrs. Russell Young was hostess to a few old acquaintances of Mrs. William Craig, Kansas City, Missouri, at her home on W. Spring-st. Friday. The afternoon was enjoyed socially and at 5 o'clock tea was served by the hostess.

Guests were Mrs. Harry Work, Mrs. E. L. Kirk, Mrs. Mae Christen Bolger, Mrs. W. J. Galvin and the honor guests.

Mrs. H. M. Leonard is entertaining as her house guest, Mrs. Colett Springer, Ft. Clinton. Mrs. Leonard and Mrs. Springer were college chums.

Members of the Art Study club delightfully entertained at luncheon at the Elks' home Saturday for the pleasure of the members of the Wyant Art club of Defiance. William Sawitsky, art representative from New York City, was present and gave a very interesting informal talk to the visiting guests who came especially to attend the exhibit of paintings at the Chamber of Commerce rooms. They were especially interested in the exhibit because it contains one of Wyant's pictures. Defiance is proud to claim Wyant as one of its old residents and it was in his honor that the Art Study club of Defiance was named.

Guests from Defiance were Mrs. Clara B. Bell, Mrs. T. B. Johnson, Mrs. H. B. Harris, Mrs. F. W. Mansfield, Mrs. Edward Squires, Mrs. Holgate Harley, Mrs. Richard Sutphen and Miss Irene Wolsifer.

Hiawatha Girls' Reserve club of Junior Central high school enjoyed a hike to McBeth park Saturday. They were chaperoned by Mrs. E. G. Weddock. The girls received instructions in the building and keeping of camp fires. They were also given valuable hints in camp fire cooking. This hike was only one of the many interesting and enjoyable affairs which this newly organized club has planned.

Miss Loretta Kelly was hostess to the members of the DuPont club Tuesday. In a clever contest Miss Anna Riley was successful. Guests were Misses Rita Doyle, Margaret Malley and Margaret Finn. At a late hour a dainty luncheon was served by the hostess.

The club will meet in two weeks with Miss Marcella Feltz, Home-Acres.

Swastika club will meet with J. H. Kenyon, 111 W. Circular-st., Monday afternoon.

Round Table will meet with Mrs. J. W. Sullivan and Mrs. Patsie Blackburn, 849 W. Spring-st., Monday afternoon at 2:00 p. m.

Good Cheer class of the Market-st Presbyterian church will meet with Mrs. James Eger, 745 Brice-ave, Friday evening.

Mrs. George Eckert has arranged for a 1 o'clock luncheon for the pleasure of the members of the Encore club, Saturday.

Wednesday an entertainment will be given at the Memorial hall by El Karan Grotto for all Masons and their families. Entertainment will consist of musical selection, playlets and sketches. Dancing and refreshments will follow.

Ladies' Aid of Bethany Lutheran church will meet with Mrs. O. A. Looker, 720 E. Franklin-st. Wednesday afternoon.

Young People's society of the First Reformed church will meet Wednesday evening at the church after the mid-week services.

A Laundry Problem in Simple Division

Our Family Laundry Service is merely a problem for you in simple division.

Divide your present wash-day toil and worry by four, and you have the answer.

Multiply by four the time you now have to yourself, and there's your proof.

We call for your family bundle and wash everything sweetly clean in soft, fresh water, with the purest of mild, white soaps.

All your flat pieces, sheets, tablecloths, napkins and towels, are nicely ironed and neatly folded. Drying by aeration smooths the wrinkles from night-gowns, pajamas, stockings, dressing sacques and similar garments, leaving them ready to use.

Shirts and waists and aprons which need it are carefully starched.

Then we return your bundle, with four-fifths of wash-day's work done. There remains for you only the ironing of frilly, fussy pieces. The rest of the wash—the part that used to sap so much of your vitality and time in the old days—is ready for you to fold away.

Yes, it does sound good, and it's even better in practice. Just phone for our representative—we're satisfied a trial will convince you.

YOUTHFULNESS

—after all, is the charm of charms. Not youthfulness that implies merely a lack of years, but youthfulness of spirit that expresses itself in a dashing frock or a smart tailleur.

—no great actress ever really grew old, couldn't afford to, you know.

—nad neither can you. There is no power quite equal to the magic of youthful clothes, when it comes to looking one's best.

Feldman clothes, the embodiment of youth and charm, appeal alike to the college girl and the college girl's mother.

—to the girl, because they have an irresistible something—a winsome style and verve, that finds an instant response. They answer every critical demand of the halycon years.

—to the college girl's mother, because they enhance one's best lines—veiling the uncertain ones.

—Spring, the joyous season of youth, is here and surely no other spring ever brought lovelier fashions than those in Feldman's.

—marked by glorious coloring and unique fashioning, they have the compelling quality of youthfulness.

LIMA THEATRE OFFERINGS IN STAGE PLAYS, MOVIES AND VODVIL

FINE PLAYS TO COME TO FAUROT

Charlotte Greenwood, in "Linger Longer Letty," Here Monday Night.

The Marcus Show Comes Saturday—Otis Skinner in Play of Mystery and Thrills

THERE are some people on the stage, who have the ability of success, almost unaided, an evening's entertainment. Charlotte Greenwood is one of them. Miss Greenwood is a natural comedienne and in addition nature has given her a singular anatomy in the way of elongated arms and legs, which she utilizes in her work most effectively. Miss Greenwood will be seen in her new musical comedy, "Linger Longer Letty" at the Faurot Monday night.

The story is written around a number of sisters. Letty is the family drudge. She does the cooking, the mending and the general housework, while the others devote their abundant leisure to enjoying themselves. Finally Letty strikes and gives out that she is coming in for some fun. She has looked with favor on a young man who is a neighbor, but her affection is not returned. Another neighbor named Jim has just returned from the naval service, a tall lanky chap, on whom none of the girls will bestow a second look. The two agree to dress up and make themselves more presentable, with the result that all the girls run after Jim and the boys after Letty. Finally the two conspirators fall in love with each other, which gives excellent opportunity for some rich comedy. Miss Greenwood is seen to better advantage than in her former success, "So Long, Letty." She is surrounded by a company of New York artists and a chorus of pretty girls who are seen in the 14 musical numbers throughout the play. Otis Skinner can always be relied upon to give us the best company and production and "Linger Longer, Letty" will be seen here exactly as it was presented in New York City.

Faurot—"The Marcus Show"

The Marcus Show of 1920, which comes to the Faurot next Saturday afternoon and night, carries a special orchestra. Several of these appear on the stage while the remainder aid the local orchestra in playing the delightful score which was composed by Charles Abbate.

Prominent in the big harlequinade are Oliver and Maria Vespo who head the Royal Italian Acrobaticists, a troupe of Neapolitan instrumentalists, who have won great fame in their land and come now for their first tour of America under the direction of Impresario Marcus.

No little credit for the entertainment value of the Marcus Show of 1920 should go to Charles Abbate from whose fertile brain emanated the words and music. Mr. Abbate enjoys the gift of composing light, airy melodies that make the jazz enthusiast shake and shiver while not offending the ear of the lover of real music.

"Smile With Me," "Good Bye, Bachelor Days," "Dixie, I Love You," "Salvation Army Girl," "Lingerie," "Budda," "Classy Clothes," "Bathing Peaches," "How to Reduce," "Anybody Want a Baby?" "Under the Sea" and "Oh! Baby!! Glide" are some of the twenty-seven song numbers which Mr. Abbate has supplied.

With few exceptions each of the musical numbers serves as excuse for the decorative and topsy-turvy presence of the celebrated Marcus Peaches. Vocally Misses Dee Wismore, Charlotte Allen, Florence Lawrence, Ruth Elmore, Edna Quirk, Messers, Billy Dale, Mike Sacks, Charles Abbate, Bob Alexander and Harry Bailey will be heard to advantage.

Otis Skinner Coming

Imagine Otis Skinner in a new play.

Charlotte Greenwood in "Linger Longer Letty" at the Faurot Opera House Monday night.

one of mystery and thrills, with gripping and sustained suspense and a most charming love story—playing the role of a great French detective, something he has never attempted before in his long and brilliant career. This is the double reason why the advent of America's foremost actor, after an absence of several seasons, is creating much pleasurable anticipation. The charm of the actor's personality and his genius would lift any character, however mediocre, to the heights. But Hanaud, the greatest detective in all France, is a gentleman, traveled, educated, keen witted, sympathetic, imperturbable, possessing an analytical mind that is a terror to evil doers. The play in question is called "At the Villa Rose," a mystery play by that famous English author, A. E. Mason. Mr. Skinner is coming direct from his record-breaking engagement at the Illinois Theatre, Chicago, to the Faurot Opera House, for one day only, Friday, March 11th.

The Faurot's Pictures

THERE are several reasons why the Faurot should not be overlooked today when you start your pilgrimage to the picture places. The first reason is that the program for today will be shown but one day only, so if you don't see it this afternoon or this evening you're all out of luck. The other reasons are that the headliner is the popular and brilliant star of stage and screen, Alice Brady; the play is a picture of Mrs. Fiske's memorable comedy success, "The New York Idea"; by Langdon Mitchell, and that the cast includes Lowell Sherman, yes, the same man who was so effective and yet so cordially hated as the "heavy" in Griffith's "Way Down East," Mrs. De Wolf Hopper, George Howell, Lionel Pape, Julia Hurley, Marie Burke, Margaret Linder, Edward Davies and others of note. Other features of the program are the Pathe News and the Paramount Magazine. For Tuesday and Wednesday the Faurot will offer Realett's charming and talented young star, Constance Binney, who will be seen in her latest screen success, "Something Different," which is a photo-adaptation of Alice Duer Miller's novel, "Calderon's Prisoner." Miss Binney is capably supported by Ward Crane, Mark Smith, Crane Wilbur, Lucy Fox, Gertrude Hillman, William Riley Hatch, Adolph Miller and others. The extra features include the Pathe News and Mack Sennett's latest comedy, "Fickle Fancy."

And to round out the week at the Faurot the trio of brilliant and popular favorites is completed by the coming on Thursday and Friday of the prettiest of screen stars, Wanda Hawley, whose new Realett picture is entitled "Food For Scandal." Just to "wise you up" we'll tell you that it is a picturization of Margaret Abglin's successful stage comedy, "Beverly's Balance," which was written for that distinguished actress by Paul Kester. Miss Hawley is not behind her sister stars in the choice of a supporting cast, for her includes such eminent names as Harrison Ford, Ethel Grey Terry, Lester Cuneo, Margaret McWade, Minnie Prevost, Juan de la Cruz and Sidney Bracy. The program also contains the Pathe Review, the International News and the Topical Digest.

CARNIVAL WEEK AT THE ORPHEUM

Commencing at today's matinee and continuing through the week the Orpheum has designated this week as "Carnival Week." Starting today and opening the Carnival week, Zarrow's Nifty Nine will be the feature attraction. It is billed as "Breezy Bits From Broadway," the girl hit of 1921, replete with good, wholesome comedy, funny comedians and the girly, whirly chorus. This will constitute only one of the features of this bill. Five other acts of superior vodvil will be offered. Foremost among these other five hits is the second feature of the bill and a feature in itself, Swartz and Clifford in "Cut It Out." This act has been reported as being one of the big laughing hits of the circuit. A good many people patronize vaudeville to laugh and Manager Shaw is securing the better class of comedy acts for the Orpheum.

Ted Healy, the lad from laughland, is another one of the big laughing treats of today's bill. Richard Wally and Co. will offer an act full of surprises and the many feats that this clever company will perform will hold you spellbound. Billy Star and Evangeline will offer "At the Ball Masque," augmented with good singing and dancing.

"The Great Kisser," who is booked as an extra added attraction on today's program, comes direct from an engagement at the London Music Hall, London, England, and has only been in this country three weeks. The Orpheum is the third stop for this feature offering.

As usual and in keeping with the policy of the Orpheum an entire new show will be offered starting Thursday matinee. Six new acts will be shown, featuring Henrietta De Serris and Models, 6 Parisian beauties and five other feature vodvil acts. Many new stunts will be run in conjunction with Carnival Week. One of the stunts and something new to Lima people will be shown night, Wednesday night at 9:00 o'clock show. Something you can't afford to miss.

On Friday, as usual, ladies' free matinee will hold sway. Friday night and for the first time this season amateur night will be given. Cash prizes will be given away to the best local talent. Many names have already been handed in to the box office, so if you want to take part in the amateur contest, better get your name in. The amateur contest will take place immediately after the first show, so a ticket for the first show will entitle you to the entire doings.

SOLOIST AT THE

Henry Schuster, one of the most talented young accordion players on the concert stage, will be seen at the Lyric theatre today in connection with the photoplay feature, offering a series of popular and classical numbers. Schuster is a musician of note and his appearance here is expected to prove highly interesting to music-lovers of the city.

Lima Silver Sheets to Reflect Latest Releases of the World of Movies

Galaxy of Stars Will Be Seen in Variety of Offerings at Various Houses

(By ESTHER WAGNER)
DEVOTEES of the silver sheet have a week of splendid photographic features before them. Each and every motion picture house has announced a program of interesting films for the coming week, embracing practically every grade and kind—comedy-drama, pure drama, simple heart stories and the deep thrilling drama.

An array of stars of unusual brilliance will be seen in their latest vehicles including Katherine MacDonald, Mildred Harris Chaplin, Constance Binney, Alice Brady, Mary Miles Minter, George Beban, Anna Q. Nilsson, Tom Mix and several others. Truly a prominent list of star players.

The week's list contains no really big features, such as have held sway during the present week, and while every one of the attractions are first-class offerings, the majority are the regular program variety.

Katherine MacDonald, the American Beauty of the stage and screen, comes this week in "My Lady's Luck," which opens on Wednesday at the Regent theatre. Miss MacDonald has a splendid role in this production and adds another to her long list of cinema triumphs.

Today brings "Habit" soul-stirring drama with Mildred Harris Chaplin in the leading feminine role. Miss Chaplin is cast as Irene Fletcher, beautiful and luxury loving, who is forced to choose between a continued life of ease and money, and life with a poor architect. The story is replete with unlooked-for climaxes and the supporting cast is as excellent one.

The Faurot's program for the week is above reproach, opening today with "The New York Idea," in which Alice Brady is starred. On Tuesday and Wednesday will be seen "Something Different" with popular Constance Binney in the leading role.

Wanda Hawley, Realart's beautiful blonde star, comes to the Faurot on Thursday and Friday in "Food for Sins," a picture with Miss Hawley at her best.

A new Metro release, "Without Limit" from the widely read Saturday Evening Post story, "Temple Dusk," is the feature attraction today at the Sigma theatre. The remarkable cast includes Anna Q. Nilsson, and gives her the role of Ember Edwards, a lonely girl who marries a weakling at a wild party. Miss Nilsson is ideally suited to the part and gives a very finished performance.

Tom Mix, well known interpreter of cowboy parts, will be at the Sigma the last three days of the week in "The Untamed" a story of the wilds.

The Lyric program for the week opens with "One Man in a Million" with George Beban in the leading role. Mr. Beban is America's foremost character, and in this picture he has his favorite role, that of an Italian great-heart. The photoplay is photographically and technically almost perfect.

"The Killer" is the interesting title of the Lyric's offering for the last of the week, which promises to be as thrilling as its title suggests. An all-star cast is to be seen in the production. Mary Miles Minter is at the Majestic theatre today in "A Cumberland Romance." Monte Blue and John Bowers play opposite.

The Regent's Pictures

A DELIGHTFULLY likeable drama is "Habit," which opens today at the Regent theatre. And because Mildred Harris Chaplin has the leading feminine role, it is doubly interesting. The Fletcher Mansion, in the heart of the extremely fashionable section of Long Island, houses motherless Irene Fletcher, from earliest childhood a victim of the habit of pretty things, and her father, at the end of his resources.

She has two suitors, one John Marshall, a struggling young architect, and the other, Charles Munson, wealthy designer of women's clothes. Her intimate girl friend is Mary Chartres, who has found her world a very nice place in which to live, with a wealthy aunt to settle the bills.

Her father tells her of his impending disaster and begs her to stop her charge accounts. Instead of extending sympathy she upbraids him and dashing from his presence she trips on the stairs and is carried unconscious to her room, where she dreams the following happenings, and they are shown as actually happening.

The audience is not taken into confidence until her awakening. First she dreams that Marshall married her and she is forced to do without the luxuries to which she was accustomed. Her husband is injured in an accident and loses his memory. Munson appears on the scene and induces Irene to visit New York. Wonderful creations are given her and Munson is on the point of caressing her when her husband arrives on the scene and kills him.

Of course Irene awakens from her dreams at this point, and finds the three men, her father, Munson and Marshall, around her. Calling Munson a villain, she consents to become the wife of the poor architect and the ending is a happy one. How's that for a story?

The fashion show as shown in the feature "Habit" is said to excel anything of the kind yet shown upon the silver sheet. Miss Harris herself wears many gorgeous creations and a general atmosphere of beauty and magnificence are predominant throughout the production.

A supporting cast par excellence is to be seen in support of the star, including William Lawrence, cast as John Marshall; Ethel Grey Terry as the chum, Mary Chartres; Walter McGrail as Charles Munson, and Emmet C. King as the father.

"Habit" is a drama of the first water, acted and mounted in a thoroughly acceptable manner. It opens today at the Regent theatre.

"The Majestic's Pictures"

Patrons of motion pictures have not failed to watch with interest the career of youthful Mary Miles Minter and those who have seen "A Cumberland Romance" say that it is little Mary's best work so far. "A Cumberland Romance" opens today at the Majestic theatre. In this picture Mary is cast as Easter Hicks, a poor girl of the Kentucky mountains who is loved by a religiously inclined mountain lad.

But who meets a city man and en-deavors to pull herself up to his level by studying. She is quite frank in her efforts to please him and when he tells her that he is returning to the city in a short time, she frantically declares her love for him. But the mountain lad had to be reckoned with, as well as the girl's father, an unregenerate old moonshiner. There are complications galore and a little gun-play, but a happy ending that leaves the audience completely satisfied. The cast includes Monte Blue, John Bowers and Martha Mattox.

Barrymore in "Macbeth" is Classed as Predominantly a Character Actor

Play Has Few Outstanding Qualities as Shakespearean Work

List of New Offerings the Past Week Among the New York Theatres

(BY FREDERICK F. SCHROEDER)
NEW YORK — (Special) — The performance of "Macbeth" at the Apollo Theater is an extremely impressive affair and has few outstanding qualities that identify it as a Shakespearean entertainment of standard tradition.

Mr. Edward Barrymore is predominantly a character actor. He has a fine physique and a good voice, but obviously lacks training in the classical school; his interpretation is unique in its disregard of the tenets of that school and, to that extent, original. There are several impressive moments in his development of the tragedy of conscience and some of his scenes are truly pathetic. As a whole, the performance is lacking in consistency, subtlety and refinement and is devoted to Mr. Julia Arthur to give a more sympathetic and artistic performance of the part of Lady Macbeth. She labored under the disadvantage of Mr. Barrymore's individualistic acting and loss of coordination and reasonableness, but whenever opportunity offered she displayed her excellent training and poetic instinct.

The production was designed by Robert Edmund Jones and the play is reduced to three acts. Most of the scenes are played in semi-darkness, and there is an absence of stage settings, the scenery being provided by curtains. The actors come and go after speaking their lines, and the arrangement is such that they work under a considerable handicap, the interest being chiefly concentrated on their manner of delivery in an unfavorable atmosphere. The production is artistic in an ultra modern sense, but whether it is true to Shakespeare is a debatable problem.

The version does away with stagecraft by the shifting of scenery; no one scene melts into another by an adroit handling of the lighting; but much of the awe and thrill of the witch scenes is lost. There is no cauldron and the three weird sisters are arranged in flaming red domes, and masks and speak their lines like the Greek chorus with no attendant action.

The new offerings this week are "Blue Eyes" at the Casino; "Smooth as Silk" at the Lexington; "Nice People" at the Klaw Theater, and "Cradle Song" a play from the Spanish, at the Times Square, at matinees only. "Blue Eyes" opened at the Casino with Lew Fields and Mollie King in the cast and is a musical comedy; "Smooth as Silk" is a new play by Willard Mack, in which he is starring, which means that his other self-made starring vehicle, "Near Santa Barbara," has had its day and a few nights; and "Nice People" is a society comedy by Rachel Crothers with Francisco Loraine in the leading role. It comes late in the week and marks the opening of the Klaw, the latest addition to the playhouses in the central theatrical district. "Cradle Song" is the fourth or fifth play of the Spanish that has been produced here with in a year and falls in with the vogue established when Nance O'Neill produced "The Passion Flower" at the Greenwich Village Theater one blizzard night last winter.

After a run of over 125 performances, the Theater Guild this week brings to a close the engagement of Ethel's "Heathcote House" at the Garrick, and its place will be taken by "Mr. Pim Passes," a play from the pen of A. A. Milne.

The new play of Eltinge for a series of matinees, "The White Villa," was one of those plays which simply had to come. The only surprising thing is that it was so far in coming, since the play has been dramatized by Edith Ellis, is the stage version of the famous novel, "The Dangerous Age," by the Danish woman novelist, Karin Michaelis. Two movies have exploited it, and it was a foregone conclusion that the speaking stage would be and by following the example.

The first act is really a skilful exposition in spite of the fact that the dramatist adhered closely to the original; but when the high point of interest is reached, the adroitly led up to and still true to the book, there is a decline of interest, not because of any violence done to the logic of the situation, but because the actress is unable to penetrate and portray the inner significance of the character, but rather because a visualizing of the love of a lady with autumn in her veins for a much younger man seems a little pathological on the stage. This may be a masculine conception of the situation, but I don't believe it, even when you smugly watch without instinctive protest, the erratic dalliances of the divorced husband with a nineteen-year-old flapper. The piece is eminently interesting, and largely so because of the exceptionally good acting of the leading part by Lucile Watson. The best-known and best-liked interpreter of smart society women on the New York stage, she proved a revelation in a wholly different sphere of art in her present character.

The play is produced under the auspices of a new organization calling itself The Players Fellowship. It was recently formed to rehearse and present for managers' inspection such plays as the members believe have artistic merit and social significance but which might be regarded too speculative to tempt a producer in these times of business depression. The members work on the theory that by investing their time and talents in the way of trial performances they are rendering a service to playwrights, to the public, the managers and to themselves. When a play is ready for its dress rehearsal, managers are invited to look at it with a view of inducing them to provide a production and a theater, the Fellowship retaining an interest in the receipts.

The Sigma's Pictures

THE Saturday Evening Post story, "Temple Dusk," by Calvin Johnston, forms the basis for Anna Q. Nilsson's latest starring vehicle, "Without Limit," the feature attraction at the Sigma theatre for the first four days of this week.

The story concerns Emmer Edwards, alone and friendless, in New York. She is tempted to leave the drab security of her hall bedroom and become one of a dinner party given by Bunny Fish, a notorious man-about-town. Among those present at the party, which is made up of questionable girls and dissolute young men, is a youth named David Marlowe, the son of an aged, impoverished clergyman.

Well, the dinner party progresses and he degrades the party gets riotously ebullient. Emmer and Marlowe have been drawn together from the start and when someone suggests that they get married, neither is sober enough to refuse. With tiny hints the entire party witnesses the wedding, after which they all repair to the Versailles, a gambling house, and try their luck at roulette.

Clement Paller is the owner of the gambling joint, himself a veteran gambler. David, the boy, starts losing heavily and forges a check. Paller in a curious turn of mind, detains the boy and his wife, and sends for David's father, the Rev. Marlowe.

The climax to this interesting train of events is one of the most startling and compelling ever enacted on the screen. The role of Emmer, as taken by Anna Q. Nilsson, the Swedish beauty, is a role ideally suited to the talents of that gifted young actress and she makes every moment count. Robert Frazer as David Marlowe, the weakling, carries out his role to perfection and the others in the cast are equally good.

"Without Limit" is a splendid triumph of the screen, one of the most unusual and interesting dramas you will have seen.

THE UNTAMED

The last of the week brings Tom Mix to the Sigma theatre in "The Untamed," a whirlwind tale of the wilds and of three strange pals, a man, a horse and a dog. It is a picturization of Max Brand's popular novel of the same title. It boasts a very fine cast of players, all favorites of motion picture devotees.

Pauline Starke, a popular leading woman, plays opposite Mix. "The Untamed" is a story of the West in which there are three strange comrades. The trio consists of a sort of superman, wild and primitive; a real child of the Outdoors, who recognizes no man-made laws; a big, feisty stallion known as Satan, and a gigantic dog, Black Bart. With these three unusual beings the author has created a most unusual and entertaining picture, one that is bound to hold you from start to finish.

"The Untamed" starts at the Sigma on Thursday.

The Lyric's Pictures

THE LYRIC theatre announces a very strong program for today and all week, promising theatre goers two splendid dramatic features, the first of which, to be presented today and for four days, is "One Man in a Million," which stars George Beban, one of America's foremost character actors.

The picture, a Robertson-Cole release, is said to be flawless, and undoubtedly one of the greatest dramas of the age. In the familiar role of a humble Italian whose brain is at all times directed by his heart and love of fellow man, Mr. Beban excels. This picture is his longest vehicle—either on the stage or the silver sheet.

The story of "One Man in a Million" is one of real heart interest. It is different. It contains all of the elements essential to the successful photoplay.

Mother love, sweetheart love, the love of man for animals and a sufficient quantity of comedy to counterbalance the dramatic and pathetic moments. Incidentally, Mr. Beban himself wrote the story and directed the picture.

Aside from having perfection of story and detail, the cast in support of the star is an exceptional one, headed by Helen Jerome Eddy and including Irene Rich, George Williams, Jennie Lee and George Beban, Jr., the five-year-old son of the star. George, Jr., is a precocious youth and without a peer among the child actors of the screen today.

The last three days of the week brings "The Killer" a picture out of the ordinary. As the title suggests, this photo-drama is a real thriller and carries a cast that is splendid.

Mr. Henry Schuster, accordion soloist, is prominent on the Lyric's program today, appearing in a number of popular and classical selections.

CABINET TO WEIGH 1750

NEW YORK — President-elect Harding's cabinet will have at least 1750 members, according to the latest estimates.

As for the others, the following are the names of the cabinet members: Charles Evans Hughes—Aged 58; lawyer, former associate justice of the United States Supreme Court; 1918 Republican candidate for president and conductor of government investigation in 1918. To be secretary of state. Born in Glens Falls, N. Y., and lives in New York City.

Andrew William Mellon—Aged 65; banker, one of the nation's wealthiest men, identified with many charitable and welfare organizations. To be secretary of treasury. Born in Pittsburgh, and lives there now.

SPRING BRINGS CONFIDENCE-LET'S GO

SPRING, as David Warfield so aptly remarked in his wonderful play of the week, is the "nesting time" for mankind; and Spring also brings to us that youthful hope and confidence upon which the United States was built by its Pilgrim fathers and continued these 150 years by their descendants.

When President Wilson declared our business slump of six years ago was "Psychological," his remark was condemned by plain matter of fact business men who saw the world going to the dogs and could not comprehend the President's meaning. In less than six months after the slump, every factory in the country was running full blast and begging for labor.

Today, at the dawn of spring-time, business men are puzzled over prevailing conditions. Factories are closed, railroads have only meagre tonnage, the world—our world in great America—seems to have suddenly passed from inability to get what is needed to having everything that is needed and no one wanting it. The condition has been as truly psychological as it was a few years ago, but the end of the period comes with the budding of the spring months.

The greatest Hoodoo of all our Bogies has been resoundingly spanked, for the High Cost of Living has vanished. It has taken since early last May for business in general to adjust to the lower prices, but it has adjusted. Only fools who stand out for war-time wages will fail to benefit from the good times which we now enter. March will gather speed with its first few days; April will see us in second; and when May comes we shall shift into third for the second great era of prosperity of the twentieth century.

Lima manufacturers are saying "Let's Go"; and this is but preliminary to the going. Lima workers are sane and ready to meet the new conditions which are better conditions than dreamed of five years ago. Normalcy is ours for the acceptance; Confidence is the prescription; and prosperity and that homey happiness which prosperity brings, only asks that we begin taking the prescription forthwith. Everything is set, "Let's Go."

SALVATION ARMY SEEKS CLOTHING FOR THE POOR

The Salvation Army has undertaken the supply of clothing to the needy in the city. Adjutant E. D. Dinklicker, in charge of the local work of the Salvation Army, is anxious to supply as many needy families as possible with clothing.

He invites all those who have donations to make to leave them at the Salvation Army hall, 456 S. Main-st., which will be open each week on Monday and Tuesday from 1 to 4 o'clock. Any family in need of clothing may apply at that time and will be supplied as far as possible, without charge.

Adjutant Dinklicker may be reached by calling telephone Main 6618 at his office or State 1881, his residence.

WHITNEY, READER, GIVES LYCEUM COURSE NUMBER

Edwin Whitney, reader, gave the play "Turn to the Right," at the Central High auditorium Friday night as one of the headliners of the winter lyceum course. Those who attended say it was one of the best numbers on the program so far, and that Whitney gave realistic interpretations of the characters of the play.

BACK DAUGHERTY

Official Washington Pleased By His Appointment.

WASHINGTON — Announcement by President-elect Harding of his selection of Harry M. Daugherty of Columbus, for attorney general, is pleasing to official Washington.

Republican senators are well satisfied with his selection. Ohio members of Congress, most of whom have known Daugherty for years, express confidence that Harding's faith in his old friend and political associate will be vindicated before Daugherty has served many months.

Senator Pomerehne, Democrat, said, "I think Daugherty will make a good attorney general." Senator Willis sent this telegram to Harding, "Your appointment of Harry M. Daugherty to a position in your cabinet is a fitting honor worthily bestowed upon an able, loyal fighting American. I congratulate you and the country."

To Daugherty, Willis sent this message, "I congratulate you and the country upon your appointment."

Good Times Are Here

It has become a sudden realization on the part of the buying public that NORMALCY is here—that old-time prices with better service has quietly, practically unobserved, settled among us—that there is more money in circulation right now than there was a year ago—that business everywhere, and particularly in Lima and vicinity, is back to normal.

What is the result? Everybody wants his or her Ford car NOW. We want to give everybody quick delivery on the car of your choice, but we simply must take care of the sales in their order.

If you give us your order now, we will make delivery as soon as possible.

Let's Go!

Judging by sales since the first of the year, we will far exceed this quota.

Ford sales in Lima have been increasing constantly since this agency was opened seven years ago, and 1921 will undoubtedly prove the banner year.

Sales are piling up ahead of car deliveries. If you want YOURS, it would be wise to get your order in at once. Dealers everywhere have advance sales reports on the greatest spring rush for Ford cars in the history of the industry.

More Money In Circulation

(Copyright 1921 By the Exhibitors' Trade Review.)

"A recent treasury statement said that on January 1st, 1921, there was more money in circulation than last year. On that date there was $6,340,436,718 in circulation, or $59.12 per capita as compared with $5,260,382,866, or $55.89 per capita on Jan. 1st, 1920. "The figures speak for themselves."

Everybody Can A-Ford a Ford

People have come to the universal opinion that it pays in actual dollars and cents to own a Ford.

You can buy a Ford and put the rest of the money in the bank.

"My Ford is as much of an asset in my business as my four years in college, it is equal to the efficiency of any $2,000 a year man," said a local sales-manager in putting the practical touch to why it pays to own a Ford.

Reasonable in price at the start, economic in upkeep, never falling far below its original par value, no matter how many miles of service it has seen, a Ford car has come to be the universal car of all classes from the laboring man to the $50,000-a-year manager.

Business or pleasure, it all the same, the Ford is economical as it is efficient.

THOMAS KINSTLE FUNERAL

St. Louis Company Sues New Orleans Firm at Wapak

WAPAKONETA — (Special) — Thomas Kinstle, father to Edward Kinstle, 15, who was arrested on a charge of stealing money at St. Joseph's Catholic church here, repaid the amount that the boy admitted stealing, $29.16. The boy is still held in the detention home here for further investigation by Juvenile Judge Poeschl. The Kinstles reside in Lima.

The W. F. Ferguson Lumber Co. of St. Louis, Mo., filed suit in Common Pleas court here Friday afternoon against the Madisonville Sawn and Planing Mill Co. of New Orleans, La. Plaintiff company asks for $2,556.25 alleged to be due because of non-fulfillment of a contract on the part of the New Orleans concern to deliver two carloads of lumber. Proceedings were instituted in this county because the plaintiff company is attempting to attach the proceeds of the sale of two carloads of lumber that belonged to the Madisonville company.

Funeral services for the late Thomas Kinstle, who died suddenly of apoplexy here Thursday afternoon, will be held at St. Joseph's Catholic church, Monday at 9 o'clock a. m. Interment in St. Joseph's Catholic cemetery east of the city.

At a meeting of the stockholders of the Wapakoneta Wheel Co. on March 17, the proposition of increasing the stock of the company from $50,000 common and $25,000 preferred stock, will be considered.

All sewer work on Wood and North-sts has been completed and the contractors hope to have house connections and catchbasins completed in ten days.

The official automobile record for the year as issued by the Secretary of State, gives Auglake county's as 3,474 passenger cars and 522 trucks.

Funeral services were conducted Friday over the remains of Mrs. Mary Ellen Abbott at the Presbyterian church, in charge of the Rev. J. Norman Kling. Interment in Greenlawn cemetery.

EX-PRESIDENT TO LEAD QUIET LIFE; SOME INTIMATE GLIMPSES OF HIM

Interesting glimpses of the president taken during his eight years in office. Upper left shows President and Mrs. Wilson, the first snap-shot taken of the two together after their marriage. Center shows the president in Paris. Left to right, below, president in his most typical speaking pose, one of his most popular photographs (center), and Taft and Wilson riding to the capitol for the inauguration in 1913. A box at the right is one of the most recent photographs of the president taken after his illness.

Those who see him all agree that there has been a marked improvement in his health and his contentment since November 2. The result, instead of coming as a blow, seemed to lift a weight from his shoulders.

Even concerning the league of nations, always close to his heart, he is reported to be quite philosophical. He made his fight for it; his belief in it is unshaken. But if there are others who feel that they can do a better job than he, the president is quite willing that they shall go ahead and try.

Wilson is quite satisfied that his record will analyze well in the years to come and that it will meet the tests of mature judgment. He has often been credited with a marked faculty of discounting public clamor of the moment and seeing events beyond it in their true perspective.

Just what plans have been made for Mr. Wilson's outings have not been disclosed. There will, of course, be a midwinter. The president does not own one, and those which have been at his service will

HARD JOB AHEAD OF LAWMAKERS

Congress Faces Task When it is Called By Harding.

MANY PROGRESSIVE LAWS

History of Democratic Rule is Outlined.

BY H. N. KICKEY

WASHINGTON — When the sixty-seventh Congress is called into special session by President Harding soon after his inauguration, March 4, the Republicans, for the first time in 10 years, will be in complete control of both the legislative and executive branches of the federal government.

During six years of that period, from 1912 to 1919, the Democrats controlled both branches. In 1911 and 1912, there was a Republican president, Taft, a Republican Senate, and a Democratic House.

In 1919 and 1920, and up to March 4, this year, there has been a Democratic president and a Republican majority in both Senate and House.

Two of the six years, 1917 and 1918, that the Democrats were in complete control, were war years in which every normal legislative and administrative policy was sacrificed to the winning of the war. So that in appraising Democratic results unmodified by division of political control or war necessities, there are only four years to be considered—the period from 1913 to 1916.

It was during these four years that the Democrats, under the leadership of President Wilson, made their legislative and administrative record on purely domestic questions to which party leaders point as they turn the presidency over to the Republicans.

This does not mean that any responsible Democratic leader from President Wilson down admits failure or even weakness during the two war years they were in control. But they have resigned themselves to waiting "for the verdict of history" on these years, crowded as they were with contentious questions.

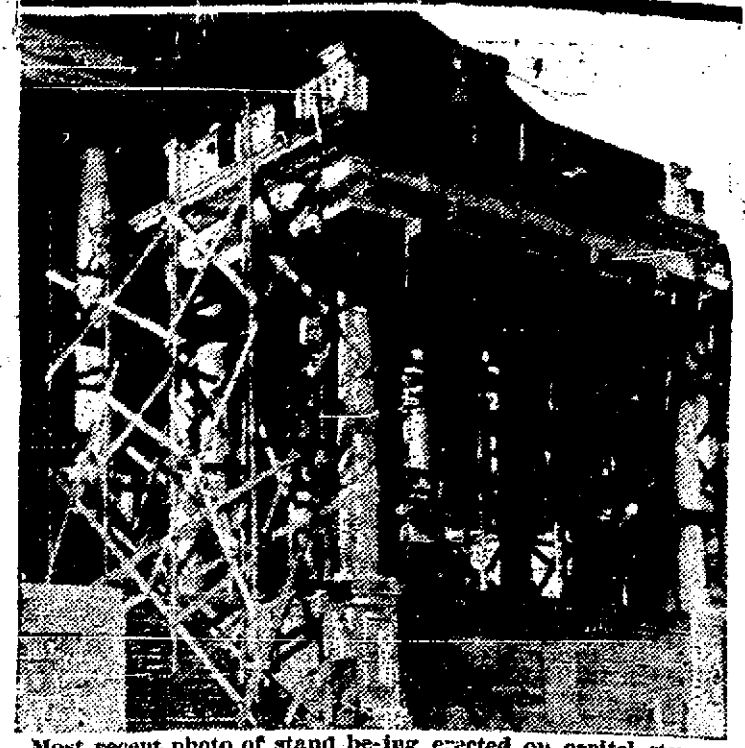

An analysis of the 1913 to 1916 years, both in their legislative and administrative aspects, discloses an interesting record.

Entirely apart from the question of whether one agrees with the policies involved, it is not an overstatement to say that viewed as constructive, progressive legislation, they are unique in our history.

The federal reserve act, which freed the nation from the danger of financial panics and gave for the first time a banking and currency system comparable with that of other great nations, was passed by the Democratic Congress and approved by Wilson in December, 1913.

The federal farm loan act, which for the first time assures adequate means of providing capital to the farmers of the nation, was a fitting complement to the federal reserve act. It was made a law in 1916. Its success was undoubted, but its operation has been held up for months by the courts on the suit of mortgage bankers.

The federal good roads law made available $75,000,000 for the development of the highway systems throughout the nation in co-operation with the states.

The Underwood tariff law, approved by Wilson in September, 1913, took the place of the Payne-Aldrich tariff law of unsavory memory.

The tariff commission law, creating a bipartisan board for the scientific study of the tariff question, was the first actual step toward taking the tariff out of politics. It followed largely the plan of President Roosevelt.

The law creating the federal trade commission was responsive to the demand for a nonpartisan body to arbitrate commercial disputes and prevent unfair competition.

The pride of the Democratic leaders in the accomplishment of this commission is second only to their pride in the accomplishments of the Federal Reserve Board.

The seventeenth amendment to the constitution, providing for the direct election of senators by popular vote, was proclaimed in May, 1913.

The ship purchase act established a government shipping board to purchase and build ships and supervise freight and passenger schedules. Its existence at the time we entered the war made possible the creation of the Emergency Fleet Corporation and the rehabilitation of the merchant marine for both war and peace purposes.

The La Follette-seaman's act, also sponsored by a Republican senator, was passed by a Democratic Congress and approved by Wilson. This act improved the working conditions of American sailors and provided effective precautions to prevent loss of life at sea.

The Smith-Lever agricultural extension act was the biggest step toward the dissemination of scientific knowledge concerning farm operation and management.

The workmen's compensation act extended protection to thousands of government employees.

The Clayton antitrust act was designed to prevent the abuse of injunctions in labor disputes and was declared that labor is not a commodity open to barter and sale.

The eight-hour law fixed the maximum day allowed on work done for the government, directly or by contract, and fixed eight hours as maximum for all women in the district of Columbia.

The grain standard act gave the secretary of agriculture authority to establish grain standards, simplifying relations between grain producers, dealers and consumers.

The warehouse act made warehouse receipts more acceptable collateral, which enables owners to store products to obtain loans more nearly approximating the full value of their products.

The Alaskan railway act, providing for the construction of a government-owned railway in Alaska, was the necessary step to opening Alaska.

Under the general title of conservation, the Democrats are responsible for a series of laws opening natural resources to development and preventing monopolization of the remaining timber, mineral oil, and land resources of the nation.

The Philippine act provided greater measure of freedom for Filipinos and assured them ultimate independence.

The Democrats changed the rule of the House of Representatives abolishing the so-called czarism under which the speaker was virtually the dictator of legislation.

The Department of Labor was created, with its head a member of the cabinet.

The parcel post was developed from a mere shell to the biggest press business in the world.

HARDING AND THE NEWSPAPER MEN

None Blames Him for Banishing Them on Trip.

GLAD TO ESCAPE PUBLICITY

Correspondents Hope for Return of Old System.

BY EDWARD B. CLARK
WASHINGTON — When President-elect Harding crossed the gangplank of the good houseboat "Victoria," owned and presumably navigated by the honorable senator from New Jersey, Joseph Sherman Frelinghuysen, he requested that the newspapermen stay at the nether end of the plank and let him sail the placid Florida waters without their companionship.

Men of the newspaper world probably will appreciate Senator Harding's feeling in this matter and probably will understand his desire to cut loose from publicity for a few days. It is also entirely probable that the newspaper men who had been the president-elect's constant companions were perfectly willing to "cut it out" for a short time and to give their fingers and the keys of their typewriters a rest.

The correspondents in Washington today are wondering whether the old-time relations with the executive mansion will be re-established after Mr. Harding moves into the white building. President Wilson for a long time has been unable to see the correspondents. For some time after he became president, Mr. Wilson talked to the newspaper men on his own and occasionally he gave them the basis of a good news story, particularly so in one instance when he literally flashed out one morning the statement to them that "a pernicious lobby is at work in the city of Washington." Instantly the newspapermen asked if he could be quoted. He said he would make a statement. He did and the result was the investigation into the activities of a lobby which afterward became known as the Mulhall case.

President Wilson, however, rarely has seen the newspaper men alone. He has been averse to granting interviews and he reversed the procedure of Theodore Roosevelt and to some extent that of President Taft.

HOW ROOSEVELT USED THE PRESS
When President Roosevelt wanted to find out whether the country would respond to some legislation that he had in mind he would send for the newspaper men and would talk about the subject in mind without committing himself to it in one way or the other. The result was that everybody in the United States was informed what the president was thinking about. The result was from the country sympathetic or antagonistic. Were instead, and if the sympathetic ones were in the majority, Congress would hear something on the subject from the White House.

President Roosevelt soon found out what men there were in the body of Washington correspondents who were sympathetic with his progressive policies. These men he would call into conference frequently, one at a time and actually would pour out his heart to them. He had a search following of the faithful.

When President Taft came into office he was not particularly communicative. He held little intercourse with the members of the press, although before long he let down the bars and meetings with the correspondents were frequent. A little later when came the element of the Republican party, his criticism of the Taft administration, intercourse with the representatives of the press was not so continuous but once in a while the president would "open up" and come to his own defence, and also frequently would spring to the attack.

HARDING GENIAL TO THE BOYS
Washington correspondents have come to realize that their chances of frequent interviews with president-elect Harding are good. They are already upon their temperaments. This intercourse with the press can be overdone, and it has been overdone in some cases, but it also can be underdone and this has happened in times past.

Ever since the day that Warren G. Harding was nominated for the presidency at Chicago he has had with him eight or ten newspaper men, and some of the larger dailies. He also has had with him a man who might be called the press representative of the president, a trained newspaper man who has endeavored to direct the news currents in a proper way and who generally has been credited with having made a success of his job.

What is to happen when the president moves into the White House is not yet known, but the majority of correspondents in Washington believe that the American public is not going to look in vain to the White House for news. The next president man, and one who can stand a lot of what some people would call hectic but newspaper men do not.

Said quiet title to 16.76 acres of land in Section 20, Anguizez, has been filed by E. B. Moyer. Catherine T. Simmons and nearly a dozen other defendants are named. Moyer has been in possession of the land for some years.

"DARK HORSE" IN CABINET LIST HAS HAD NOVEL CAREER

Edwin Denby, of Detroit, is now slated to become secretary of the navy in President-elect Harding's cabinet. Denby served ten years in the Chinese maritime customs service when a youth. He served in the Spanish and World wars. He is a lawyer by profession.

HARDING FAVORS WELFARE WORK

Serious Faults in Our School System Pointed Out.

GOVERNMENT MUST DO MORE

Too Many Teachers Immature, Statisticians Show.

WASHINGTON — When President-elect Harding was merely a candidate for the high office to which he has been chosen, he spoke of government welfare work in such a strain as to make many people believe that it is his intention to recommend that a department of welfare be established with a cabinet officer in charge. The women of the country especially seem to take this affirmative view of the case.

It has been suggested that if a welfare department is established, education will come within the scope of its supervision and work. There are, however, many educators in the United States who are urging that a separate department of education, with a cabinet officer at its head, shall be established. The matter, of course, is in abeyance and nobody knows what will come of it, but today there are extraordinary efforts being made to get the government to do more for the educational interests of the country than it is doing at present.

Some statements have been made recently in printed form for distribution, which have been vouched for by high educational authority. These statements, seemingly as such as to support the arguments which were made by nearly every candidate for the Democratic and Republican nominations for the presidency, and by the two nominees themselves when they were on the stump in behalf of their personal causes. Each candidate had something to say about the necessity of better pay and a stronger sentiment of support for the school teachers of the land, and urged further that the school facilities be increased, saying that it made little difference what the cost was, for the end was worth the price.

SOME GLARING FAULTS
Now the country is told, thru a recent leaflet from the National Educational association, these things: Educational authorities "who have studied conditions carefully, estimate that of the 600,000 public school teachers in the United States 100,000 are under the age of twenty-one; 30,000 have no education beyond the eighth grade; 150,000 have no education beyond the third year in high school; 450,000 (4-5 of the total) have not had two years' special training, the minimum recognized standard in other civilized countries; 40,000 temporary teachers have not even fulfilled our own low educational requirements."

All over the United States today there are schools, lycums, lecture courses and various other means provided for the Americanization of the newly arrived immigrant. Some members of Congress say that a great many American citizens of long descent need Americanization just as much as do some of the immigrants. Education, in their opinion, is necessary for a thorough Americanization, not only of the incoming foreigner, but of the children of Americans of long descent.

Joseph H. Defrees, who is the president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, said in Washington recently that conditions in our public schools undoubtedly contribute much to the unrest in this country today. He added, that the situation had become so serious that it no longer could be looked upon as a matter of purely local interest, but should be treated as a national issue to be solved thru the co-operation of state and nation.

IMMATURE COUNTRY TEACHERS
In the country districts, the leading educators say, the teachers, as a group represent the most immature and least educated of all the teachers in the land. This is an indictment, of course, of educational systems apart from the great population centers. It is estimated that 60 per cent of the children of the United States are educated in the country districts. It is not for a layman to say whether these criticisms of the schools of the country districts are well based or not, for the point is that if a department of welfare or a department of education should be established, the whole subject of education in city and country would become one of the matters of its special care.

It is said that last year 18,000 class rooms in the United States were vacant because of lack of teachers. If an average of 25 pupils to each class room is fixed, the National Educational association says, this means that 450,000 pupils last year either were denied instruction entirely or were crowded into other class rooms where they were taught by overworked, underpaid and perhaps untrained teachers.

There is a plan to submit to Congress a proposition for government appropriations to be used for education, but to be used only under direction of the officials in the state in which the money is expended. This will mean, it is said, that the federal government will avoid paternalistic methods and that the people of each state will be left to use the money as they see fit in their schools.

CRAIG GETS FOUR YEAR TERM

Term Fight Among Commissioners Ended Saturday

GRAY GIVES UP CONTEST

Craig Will Serve Long Term With J. W. Thompson

The fight between Walter W. Craig on the one side and A. J. Gray and John W. Thompson on the other, in a court suit for the designation of the winners of the short and long terms for county commissioners in the November election, is all over. Craig will receive a four-year term certificate, instead of two years, and Gray will be content with a certificate for two years. Hence, Thompson and Gray will have the long terms, instead of Thompson and Gray, as announced when the vote was counted on election day in November.

GRAY GIVES IT UP

Gray gave up Saturday, agreeing to abide by the decision of the court and the result of the ballots, which established the fact that Craig had received more votes than either Gray or Thompson and that he was entitled to a certificate of election for four years.

"We expect to abide by the decision of the court," Gray said Saturday, speaking for himself and Thompson, both of whom issued a statement agreeing to the further court proceedings. County commissioners are elected to administer the affairs of the county and not to engage in extended litigation among themselves. In such lawsuits the county generally suffers," Gray said.

"If the will of the people could have been determined, we believe that we both would have received long terms as commissioners, but under a recount as required by law and evidence from the ballots of the 14 precincts, Mr. Craig is the winner. The people of this county can give nothing if this case is carried to the court of appeals for determination on the legal proceeding which will be raised. County commissioners serve best in the commissioners' room and not in the court room and we will carry out our duties as commissioners in the service of all the people of this county, the same as if no contest had been instituted."

The next step in the closing up of the controversy will be an order from the common pleas court to the board of deputy state supervisors of elections for Allen Co. to issue a four-year election certificate to Craig and one for two years to Gray, recalling the original certificates issued.

AWAIT COURT'S ORDER

"We shall not issue the certificates," Chief Deputy J. B. Madigan of the board of elections said Saturday. "Until we receive a court order authenticating the order from the court. The ballots cast in the November election will also be held until released by the court, after which they will be burned, as provided by law," Madigan said.

When Commissioner Craig was informed Saturday that Gray and Thompson had agreed to abide by the decision of the court and that the contest was a closed incident, he expressed his gratification.

"I only want what is honestly due me," Craig said. "I felt certain that I had received the greater number of votes, else I would not have opened a contest."

According to the count of the ballots on election day, Craig was low man, receiving three votes less than Gray and six less than Thompson. After a recount of the ballots in fourteen precincts, specified in Craig's petition, the result showed that he was winner over Thompson by 10 votes and 33 over Gray.

ROOT MAY BE U. S. LEAGUE ENVOY

Harding Has Plans Along This Line, It Is Rumored.

NEW YORK.—Elihu Root, according to Republican leaders here, will be asked by Secretary of State Hughes to play a conspicuous part in the negotiations with European powers for provisions permitting American's entrance into a League of Nations for lasting peace.

Root, they believe will be the spokesman of Hughes and Harding, neither of whom will personally participate in the negotiations.

Root, of course, would be eminent for the task. Besides being a former U. S. senator and secretary of state and diplomat, Root has been unusually equipped by contact with allied statesmen in working out the international court provided by the League covenant.

Root is in favor of entering the present league with reservations and modifications.

HARDING'S PLAN
The program for bringing about peace has been variously defined upon by Harding.

FIRST: Peace by the Senate and House of a resolution declaring peace.

SECOND: Universal exchange with the allies and Germany to not just financial matters, and other questions relating to peace.

THIRD: Dispatch of an American minister to Berlin and appointment of a German minister at Washington.

JESSE A. COIL ESTATE IS PLACED AT $16,000

COURT STARTLED BY "SURPRISE" WITNESS

WILLIAMSON, W. Va.—C. E. Lively, "surprise" witness in the Matewan gun fight trial, was today recalled to the witness stand for cross-examination. Testifying for the state late yesterday afternoon in circuit court, where Sid Hatfield, Matewan police chief, and 18 other defendants are being tried on charges growing out of the death of Albert F. Felts, a private detective, and six of his companions last May 18, Lively told a story that startled those in the court room. He testified that he was in the secret service department of the Baldwin-Felts detective agency and that he went to Matewan a month after the pistol and rifle battle which followed execution of miners' families from Stone Mountain Coal Company houses, by Baldwin-Felts operatives. During the night seven Baldwin-Felts men, the town mayor, C. C. Taborman and two citizens were shot to death.

The Blues of Today

To-day the very atmosphere is laden with pessimism and the majority of us have put on our smoke glasses—content to drift, unmindful of the present and indifferent as to the future.

The banker, business man, merchant, manufacturer, professional man and working man all feel blue to-day.

I have not heard a cheerful word from a professional man for a month.

Blue as things look to-day, with the dirge of depression heard at every turn—these are the times when a man with courage and foresight can and will lay the foundation for great gain in the wealth of this world.

With the return of normal business, when the smoked glasses have been laid aside and cheerfulness restored, THE RECOGNIZED LEADER OF THAT TIME WILL BE THE COURAGEOUS MAN OF TO-DAY.

History Records

That the foundations of most fortunes were laid in periods of depression, similar to present day conditions.

The foundation of the great Rothschild fortune, now the Banking house of all Europe, was founded in times like these, likewise the great Banking House of J. P. Morgan & Company. It took the courage and vision of the late E. H. Harriman to see twenty years ahead, to buy the Union Pacific Railroad, its rails hidden by weeds, when it was put up at bankrupt sale, for $70,000,000 on the steps of the Omaha Court House, founding the great Harriman fortune of to-day.

Courage, COURAGE and more COURAGE. The days of good business are not gone forever, and will return. We are fortunate and should be thankful in that we are living in the most highly productive country in the world. The principal duty of citizenship is loyalty, with the constant effort to do right.

However, something more than sad faced loyalty is required to-day. Fundamentally this well blessed country is sound, and we have every reason to lift our heads in joyful anticipation of the days yet to come.

A. W. Wheatley

TO ENCOURAGE POVERTY

Is to multiply its power. When your teeth represent a stage of poverty, your health must suffer. Poor health will prevent you from using your best effort in your work, which in turn cannot attract wealth. The road to wealth begins with yourself and bodily necessities which will improve. One reason your teeth will attract better health if they get my attention—massaging will be more thorough, and his will improve the quality of nutrition your body demands. Your teeth will see less of poverty, if you will call today.

MUTT AND JEFF—THAT'S A DIRTY TRICK TO PLAY ON THE SQUIRRELS—

BRINGING UP FATHER—

SHORT SHAVINGS

"You are late for dinner, as usual," said Mrs. Twobble, crossly.

"I believe I am, my dear," answered Mr. Twobble, apologetically. "I dare say you've been standing in front of a baseball bulletin board."

"No, indeed."

"Ah! I thought you would try to deceive me. Mrs. Wapples told me she saw you there."

"I wasn't in front of the bulletin board. The crowd was so large I could not get in front of it. I was away around on one side."

Two business men, rushing along a crowded street, bumped into each other. One started to smile, but the other scowled, and then both glared at each other.

They passed each other with anger in their hearts.

At a social function not long afterward the men were introduced to each other.

They looked at each other coldly and then one inquired, with a twinkle in his eye:

"Let me see, haven't we bumped into each other before?"

The other man immediately thawed out and the two laughed.

Now they are good friends.

Fat (who was watching the street crumpler pass) "Well, if Ol' hadn't seen it Ol' never believe it!" he exclaimed.

"Believe what?" asked a bystander.

"That th' fiddit as a driver 'd thry to haul wather in th' folks as that laky wagon, an' Ol' suppose he's gettin' paid by th' load."
